PROFESSIONAL ACTS ONLY FOR BIG BENEFIT

America's Zev Wins Great Race, Defeating Briton's Papyrus

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Boxing as Manly Art Distinct from Prize Fighting

IN our column, "Editorials by the People," today appears a letter which is in answer to one in yesterday's column regarding boxing.

One of the letters is from a citizen who takes exception to boxing exhibitions, claiming them to be degrading. The other is from a young man who is president of the Athletic Club who had sponsored the bouts in question.

We are inclined to agree with both writers in part.

Boxing as a profession as it is now regulated is more than liable to prove brutal in a majority of cases. Especially is this true in a bout where the participants are poorly matched. When a bout turns into a brutal attack by a boxer who happens to be much superior to his opponent, his only aim being to knock him unconscious, it can be nothing else but degrading to the youth. The making of heroes out of champion boxers surely sets a bad example to our youth.

* * *

IN the last fight for champion of the world the winner, Jack Dempsey, was acclaimed a hero throughout the land and on arriving at Salt Lake City he was met at the depot by a brass band.

* * *

THIS is the same Dempsey who turned aside and claimed exemption when his country called him to defend it. If professional boxing makes a hero of a man such as this the sooner a ban is put on it the better for the country.

Quoting from the letter we are printing today: "The United States government and our standard institutions of knowledge throughout the world approve and instruct in boxing while this editorial says it is degrading to Glendale."

* * *

IT is true that during the war the government did approve of boxing and our institutions of learning do instruct in boxing, but only from the manly art standpoint, not from a professional, money-making point of view.

We are in favor of boxing when it is taught and used as an amateur sport. It teaches quickness of thinking, keenness of eye and calls for the utmost physical development.

Boxing and prize fighting are, however, different propositions.

* * *

THIS last letter might be accepted as it reads if it were not for the fact that the Athletic Club has added to its next list of attractions a bout between women participants. We know of no institution of learning that advocates the promotion of bouts between women and we believe if such is allowed to be held in Glendale it will prove degrading to all who witness the bout.

RECEPTION TO REV. RASMUS POSTPONED

On account of the indisposition of Dr. Henry Rasmus, who became ill Wednesday, the reception to honor him and his son, Rev. Harry Rasmus, Jr., assistant pastor and director of religious education, which was to have been given by the Brotherhood of the First Methodist Church Friday evening, was called off. A fine program arranged by C. D. Lusby had been planned and will be given later when Dr. Rasmus is sufficiently recovered. There has been great rejoicing on the part of church members over the return of Dr. Rasmus and his son to this charge.

ZEV WINS BIG RACE AGAINST BRITISH PAPYRUS

Latter Gets Away in Lead, Zev Soon Passes, Wins by Six Lengths

BELMONT PARK, NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Zev, America's great 3-year old, defeated Papyrus, the English 3-year-old champion, by six lengths in the mile and a half international match race today.

Time—2:35 1-5.

Away wtih a lead of a length, Papyrus seemed to stop and Zev took the lead as they passed the paddock gate.. The American colt held this lead of a length until they reached the stretch where Earl Sande called upon Zev for speed. The English colt, driven hard by Jockey Steve Donoghue, failed to get up and when they passed under the wire Zev was running under restraint.

One of the greatest crowds in American turf history, a gathering estimated at more than 70,000, witnessed the stirring spectacle and a mighty roar of applause went up when the American colt which had been belittled as a distance runner by many experts, romped home the victor.

Time by quarters: 25 4-5; 50 2-5; 1:15; 1:40 4-5; 2:07 3-5; 2:35 2-5.

Zev ruled the favorite up until post time. He quoted at four to five, while even money was laid against Papyrus.

Zev, with his win against Papyrus today, passes the high record for total winnings by a United States horse, now held by Man O'War and nearly equalled by Morvich, which, great as a two-year old, failed last year after winning the Kentucky Derby.

Zev has already won $154,936.34; more than $150,000 as a three-year old and by coming in first today his total is $254,936.34, $5,471 more, in round figures, than Man O'War's winnings.

The world's record is held by Ksar, the French horse, which brought in $320,000. Only six horses in history have won more than $200,000.

THEY GET THEIR MONEY'S WORTH AND THAT'S WHY

Like so many flies gathered around the old family molasses jar, the classified advertisers of Glendale swarmed the liner ad department of the Glendale Press this morning.

That's a fact.

There was no denying those fellows who persisted in making their offerings known. In order to gain admittance to the liner columns these fellows begged and pleaded—they did everything but draw a gun, and they threatened to do even that.

The reason for all this scramble is explained in one little word — results! That's all. They get their money's worth and some more. That's why they continue to come.

GLENDALE'S TWO EXECUTIVES HOME FROM CONVENTION

Governor Comes in for Censure and Teacher Shortage Discussed

Glendale's two school executives, George U. Moyse, superintendent of the Glendale High school district, and Richardson D. White, superintendent of the Glendale school district, were back at their desks this morning following their attendance this week at the annual state convention of school superintendents at Riverside.

The climax of the convention was the approval of a resolution refuting allegations of inefficiency in the administration of school affairs contained in Governor Friend Richardson's budget message.

Mark Keppel, superintendent of schools for Los Angeles county, announced that one of the bills vetoed following the last legislature was one facilitating the consolidation of high school and grammar school districts.

A probable shortage of teachers was discussed at one of the sessions. The consensus of opinion prevailed that 3,000 additional teachers will be needed every school year, if the population continues to increase at the same ratio. As the "output" of the state normal schools is not over 1600 teachers a year, this means that 1400 teachers must be invited to California every year. The importance of maintaining teaching standards so that only the most efficient teachers will be attracted was emphasized.

The teaching of history, economics, geography and civics was commented upon. A committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of combining these subjects into new study to be known as social science.

Will C. Wood, state superintendent of education, presided at the convention which was held in the Mission Inn at Riverside.

PRESIDENT AND GOVERNORS GET TOGETHER

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Governors of more than thirty states met with President Coolidge and other federal officials at the white house today to consider methods of obtaining better enforcement of the immigration, narcotic and prohibition laws.

Twenty-nine state executives arrived here shortly after noon from West Baden, Ind., where the conference of governors was held, about a half dozen governors of eastern states already had reached the city. All gathered at the white house at 2 o'clock and were the guests of the president at luncheon, after which several hours had been set aside for discussion of the law enforcement problems.

INJUNCTION TO ENFORCE PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Use of the injunction as a means of enforcing prohibition laws was suggested by Attorney General Daugherty today to state governors meeting at the White House to consider co-operation in the enforcement of immigration, narcotic and prohibition laws.

REAL PROFESSIONAL ENTERTAINMENT TO BE STAGED FOR BENEFIT

This Was Decided Upon at Last Night's Meeting of Program Committee as More Desirable From a Financial Standpoint

PRICE OF FIVE DOLLARS A SEAT, FAVORED

Mrs. John E. Gardner (Louise Dresser) Says No Benefit She Has Ever Participated in, Has the Heart Appeal of This One

A million dollar professional vaudeville will be staged November 6 in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse under the auspices of the relief committee of Community Service for the benefit of survivors of the victims of the forest fire which was raging just one week ago today.

Decision to compose the program of professional instead of amateur acts was reached last night at a meeting of the program committee. It was agreed that this would be more desirable from a financial standpoint, although gratitude was expressed for the numerous offers of amateur acts.

Mrs. John E. Gardner of 125 West Mountain street, who is known upon the stage as Louise Dresser, attended the committee meeting and expressed a keen interest in the benefit. She remarked that she has participated in many benefits but has never desired to take part in one which appealed to her so much personally. She agreed to do all in her power to assist in lining up an all-star program.

William A. Howe, lessee and manager of the Glendale theater, expressed his opinion that the benefit should be put on in a big way. He stated that he considered it very unbusinesslike to sell more tickets than there are available seats. To offset the fact that there are only 763 seats in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, he suggested that the price of the tickets should be increased to five dollars.

Chalmer D. Day, chairman of the ticket selling committee, is confident that every seat can be sold at this price. He is confident that the benefit will add at least $3500 to the relief fund.

Mayor Spencer Robinson, general chairman of the benefit, is looking forward to presenting a vaudeville show which has never been equalled in the history of Glendale.

BANCROFT GETS IN THE GAME ALL OVER

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Dave Bancroft, captain of the New York Giants, whose world series batting average was .901, took everything that four tire thieves had to offer last night.

From the window of his home on Riverside drive Dave saw a junk wagon stop behind his automobile and four men began working on his spare tire. Without waiting for "play ball," and unmindful of the batting order he got into the game, using both his right and left.

When detectives arrived, Bancroft and three of the junk men were rolling on the wet pavement of the drive locked in struggle. The Giants' captain turned his three captives over to the police. Junkman No. 4 had staged a home run with the bases full.

ARACIA AVE. P. T. A. MEETS AT SCHOOL

Regular meeting of the Acacia avenue Parent-Teacher association was held on Friday at the school with Mrs. L. E. Torrey presiding. The association is planning a bazaar to be held at the school on November 24. The Acacia avenue P. T. A. will have a fathers' night entertainment sometime within the next two weeks. This will be held in the auditorium of the Glendale avenue Intermediate school.

Vocal and instrumental numbers were given by Mrs. J. Collins. Mrs. E. B. Moore gave a talk on "Co-operation." At the close of the afternoon punch and cake were served. The next meeting will be held the third Friday in November.

AUTO CLASH ON LOS FELIZ ROAD

A car driven by N. G. Nailer of Los Angeles was going east on Los Feliz road at midnight when it struck a machine owned by Leslie McNey of Pasadena which was parked on Brand boulevard.

AMERICAN LEGION LOTS ARE FINALLY SOLD FOR $20,000

Post Rescinds Action of Former Meeting; Vote Unanimous

Sale of its property on the northeast corner of Campbell and Mountain streets for $20,000 in order to provide funds for the handling of more centrally located property, was authorized last night by Post 127 of the American Legion, which subscribed $343 to the fire benefit fund as a token of its love and respect for Late Comrade Clarence Edwards.

A resolution recommending the sale of the property was approved. It was presented by the board of trustees, which is composed of Emil O. Kiefer of 305 East Broadway, R. C. Plume of 206 South Brand boulevard and Atty. Eugene J. Wix of 111 East Broadway. They explained features of the transaction.

Action taken reversed the vote of the previous meeting which rejected the proposition. With the exception of five men not voting last night, all present voted in favor of the sale. As the property was a gift from the city of Glendale, approved at the last municipal election, its exact value is unknown but it was the opinion of several local real estate experts present that the price offered establishes a new high record for unimproved acreage in Glendale.

While the clock ticked in ominous silence, Legionnaires stood with bowed heads at the commencement of the meeting in memory of their departed comrade, Clarence Edwards. He was paid many tributes during the course of the session. It was agreed that no fraternal organiaztion ever had a more loyal "brother."

Brief reports upon the national convention this week at San Francisco were made by Chalmer D. Day of 521 East Elk avenue, J. G. Armstrong of 550 Oak street, Carl W. Schwitters of 525 North Adams street, and Dru Nicoles of the telephone company. They asserted that they had been much impressed with the convention and considered it very worth while.

"It is there," declared Commander Day, "that you realize the magnitude and soldarity of the Legion."

WOMEN'S LABEL LEAGUE TO MEET MRS. BLACK

A special meeting of the executive board of Women's Union Label League No. 400 of Glendale will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. H. Black, 122 South Orange street, on Monday afternoon, October 22, at 12:30 o'clock. All members of the league were also invited to be present.

JUST ARRIVED OR MOVED LATELY? YOU MUST REGISTER

The necessity of all citizens who have located in Glendale recently or who have moved since the last election, registering again if they desire to assist in obtaining a local sewer system is emphasized by City Clerk A. J. Van Wie. He calls attention to the fact that the state law provides that voters must have resided in the state one year, in the county ninety days and in the precinct thirty days. Appointment of local registrars is now being made. In order that every one may have an opportunity to register it is planned to have registrars at the city hall and chamber of commerce and in Southern Glendale during the day and in the newspaper offices at night.

ARTISTS' SECTION HAS EVENING OF MUSIC

New Musicians Special Guests and Fine Program Given

Bewteen fifty and sixty were present at last night's meeting of the Artists' section of the Glendale Music club held at the home of the curator, Miss Gertrude Cleophas, 337 North Central, and it was very fitting that there should be an all-American program for the initial meeting. Mrs. Graham Putham and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Swartz were special guests of the evening. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones made a number of announcements of interest. Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker is in charge of the artists' registration bureau and Mrs. Jones urged that all artist members of the club desiring professional engagements register with her. Members of the club who have done any composing are asked to get in touch with Mrs. James Ballagh, curator of the creative section. The next meeting of the new Oratorio section will be held on Tuesday night at the High school, when rehearsals will begin on "Elijah" under the direction of John Smallman. Any member of the Glendale Music club is eligible for the Oratorio section.

Mrs. Jones then introduced Frederick MacMurray, a newcomer to Glendale, who had been recommended very highly to Mrs. Jones by the president of the California Federation of Music clubs, and proved himself to be a real musical artist. Mr. MacMurray is a composer, as well as a viola and violin player of unusual ability. He gave several numbers on the viola, unaccompanied, that were unusually beautiful. By sustaining three tones simultaneously on the viola last night Mr. MacMurray gave the impression of several instruments being played at once.

Mrs. Frank Arnold introduced the other numbers on the program. These included a very comprehensive paper on "American Composers" read by Mrs. Helen Sawyer. In this she brought out the names of MacDowell as having been the greatest composer and that of Cadman as being the greatest living American composer. Mrs. Graham Putnam, president of the MacDowell club, was the next speaker and gave a very interesting account of her personal acquaintance with this great composer-pianist, of whom she was a pupil.

A most artistic interpretation of MacDowell's "Concerto in D Minor" was given by Miss Gertrude Cleophas, pianiste, with May Orcutt at the second piano. The other artists of the evening included Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb, pianist; J. Arthur Myers, cellist; and Julius Krantz, violinist, who played Arthur Foote's "Trio." Henry Canto, who is soon to leave on a year's tour of the Orient, gave two tenor solos, "God Touched the Rose" (Brown) and "For You Alone" (Weehl).

Mrs. Leroy Bosserman gave a very interesting resume of current events in the music world.

CULVER CITY WANTS YANKS

CULVER CITY, Cal., Oct. 20.—An offer of a $10,000 club house to be placed at the disposal of the New York Yankees was wired to the secretary of the club this morning by local sportsmen, who want the world's champions to train there this spring. A special diamond will be constructed if the offer is accepted.

YESTERDAY WAS JUDGE LOWE'S BUSY DAY

Disposes of Forty-four Cases and Collects $525 in Fines

Forty-four cases were called yesterday before Judge F. H. Lowe in the local police court and twenty-nine of the defendants paid fines totaling $525.

Three truck drivers paid fines of $10 apiece for driving trucks over restricted streets in violation of Ordinance No. 652. They were Ralph D. Lamster of Burbank, Geo Dahl of Los Angeles and J. A. Phelps of Pasadena.

For failure to respond to citations four defendants were brought into court through the efforts of Bailiff George Brewster. When no valid excuse was offered, they were charged for the "personal service." Peter J. Mockenhaupt of Los Angeles was fined $35 for passing another machine on Brand boulevard at the intersection of Park avenue and is alleged to have proceeded to Chestnut street at a speed of twenty-eight miles per hour.

E. J. Meyer of Eagle Rock paid a fine of $15 for passing another car on the intersection of Park avenue while motoring south on Brand boulevard.

Harry R. VanCleve of 1221 East Maple was fined $10 for a similar offense.

Sax Lawrence of Los Angeles was assessed $10 for parking his car on the north side of West Broadway in a "no parking" zone.

Others fined for passing automobiles on intersections, in defiance of the new motor vehicle act, were:

John Ferris of Tujunga, $25; Ray E. Vincent, 2207 Canada boulevard, $10 bail forfeited; Frank Ziskind, 1338 Opechee way, $10 bail forfeited; Ben Cohn of Los Angeles, $10; Roy W. Sherred of Los Angeles, $10 bail forfeited; J. R. Grunagle of Pasadena, $10 bail forfeited; Warren G. Waterman, Jr., of Eagle Rock, $10; Elmo Brice, 304 North Kenwood, $30; W. A. Garnshaw of South Pasadena, $25. For violation of the municipal parking ordinance, J. Maling forfeited $5 bail for parking his car in the alley back of Roberts & Echols drug store.

For leaving the motor of his delivery truck running on Dryden street, Bernard Alvey of Los Angeles forfeited $10 bail.

For operating his automobile with only lens and with rusty reflectors, F. Wiseman of 4133 Parkdale drive forfeited $10 bail.

Failure to have a speedometer upon his automobile did not prevent George W. Cartson of Los Angeles from being fined $30 for speeding. Although Miss Gladys S. Snyder of Los Angeles told Motorcycle Officer G. Heminger that she would have to plead not guilty to going thirty miles an hour, she was fined just the same—because she admitted that she was going twenty-five miles an hour in a twenty-mile zone.

Others fined for speeding were: Leroy Balam of Los Angeles, $25; Archie Huckins of Los Angeles, $25; A. C. Knox of Los Angeles, $25; Elden DeLong of Los Angeles, $25; L. K. Brink of Los Angeles, $25; J. Feckler of Santa Monica, $25; Leonard Johnson of Tujunga, $25; Ray B. Howell of Los Angeles, $30 ball forfeited; Newton T. Hancock of Pasadena, $25.

GLENDALE FIRM CONTROLS LA CRESCENTA OFFICE

The realty firm of Wilson & Burton of San Fernando road and Central avenue has assumed control of the office of Bruce, Cook & Talmadge at the corner of Honolulu and Los Angeles streets, LaCrescenta.

A. C. Anderson, manager for Wilson & Burton, announces that H. E. Bruce and C. P. Cook will remain att his office. Both are well versed in realty values in the upcountry.

Although L. H. Wilson and W. T. Burton are associated together in business, each maintains his individual office. Mr. Wilson is located at 1034 South San Fernando road and Mr. Burton has his office at 200½ West Broadway. Both are strong boosters for Glendale.

STEERING ARM BREAKS AUTO HITS POLE

Serious injury was escaped by Arlan E. DeBurn of Alhambra about 7 o'clock last night on Verdugo road near Happiland Park when the right steering arm on his machine broke causing him to lose control of it. The automobile came to a stop after it had hit a pole.

'TWAS A NIGHT OF PURE JOY, THAT STUNT PARTY

Senior-Junior Girls and Girl Boys Put on Novel Skits

The girls' stunt party for seniors and juniors of Glendale High, a night of pure joy and fun, has come and gone, leaving the juniors all puffed up over the award of the prize for an exceedingly clever burlesque of the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

Another thing demonstrated by the evening's program was the fact that girls can have a real party without any dear charmers in the shape of boys. At 11 o'clock they were still dancing with each other with enthusiasm. It was simply amazing to see how the short, fluffy locks of the girls had been plastered down to simulate the latest male haircut. Not until you looked at the feet and saw the dainty, high-heeled slippers was the illusion disturbed.

A hard task was set the costume judges, Mrs. Yarick, Mrs. Bayley and Mrs. Lucas, but no one questioned the justice of their award when they bestowed first honors for the most original costume upon Loa Buss, a senior in the B-12 class who, dressed in a sheath gown of black, with a flaring poke bonent and a crooked elbow, represented a telephone.

The prize waltz honors were won by Alice Finn and Cleo Redd, dressed as hula hula girls, and the competition was keen enough to make it a credit worth while.

Interest of the evening centered however, in the three group stunts, the first of which was the faculty stunt, announced by Mrs. Moyse with the conundrum, "When is a door not a door; when it is a jar." It was labeled as a whole "A Portmanteau Variety Show," and the opening number was distinctly "a jar" which proved the cleverness and sense of humon or Miss Carey Ballard and Miss Lilian Shattuck, of the Physical Culture department, who from behind two screens representing gym dressing rooms put on a characteristic dialogue well punctured with slang and school allusions the fidelity of which was rewarded by the applause and laughter of the amused senior and junior audience. The "Portmanteau" also included songs by Miss Aileen Renison, "Maid and Butterfly," and "Near Lips," with Winifred Parker at the piano; some very clever cartoons on music, mathematics, art and chemistry, by Miss Crandall of the art department, in a Pierrot costume. Miss Mary Gladys Corry, debating coach, completed the stunt with two artisticly clever Irish pianologue recitations with Winifred Parker at the piano; the first being "How I Envied McGinty."

The senior stunt, "An Alumni Meeting 25 Years Hence," was an amusing dramatic skit writen by Winifred Allardice.

Gwen Warner, president of the Girls' League, had general charge of the affair and ten mothers from each class acted as chaperones with the assistance of Mrs. Moyse and class teachers.

Participating in the senior stunt, "An Alumni Meeting 25 Years Hence," were Fredericka Marshall, Helen Anderson, Jane Bodkin, Winifred Parker, Doris Osmun, Nadine King, Valera Trimmer, Gladys Peckham, Evelyn Sample and Tamsen Johnson.

The cast of the "Dempsey-Firpo Fight" included Pauline Miller as "Firpo;" Fredericka Brown as "Dempsey;" Margery Temple as referee; Martha Fleming as time keeper; Mary Jo Phillips, Betty Crossem, Dorothy Ziteleen and Caroline Ayars as the four seconds; Margaret Hart and Wilma Gasser as the trainers; Vivian Nay as camera man. In the imaginary audience around the ring were: Lucile Beach as "Dempsey's girl;" Bonnie Jean Lockwood as "Firpo's girl;" Leonore Rose as "Touch Girl;" Alice Houston as "tough boy;" Velma Bolton as "old man;" Ida Olmsted as "old lady;" Bernice Colton, Ruth Cameron, as society girls. Emily Torchia had general direction of the stunt, assisted by the class teacher, Miss Murphy, and by Miriam Whitten.

BENMAR HILLS

Burbank

"The City Beautiful"

ANNOUNCING TREMENDOUS DEVELOPMENT

Burbank, holding the key position on the San Fernando Boulevard, reports astounding progress!

Burbank, justified by an astounding growth—from 2900 to more than 10,000 in about two years—

Burbank, justified by the most definite assurance of stupendous expansion in the future, has taken the boldest, most comprehensive measure ever adopted by a California community to provide means for a full realization of her immense possibilities.

She has officially recognized and adopted a vast and beautiful tract—Benmar Hills—upon which to build her future. Already carefully planned and well on the way to full development as a model American city, Benmar Hills lies right in the logical path of Burbank's development—is, in fact, the very heart of the greater Burbank that is now rising.

Identified with Meline Interests

With this official recognition from the City of Burbank, and with her period of difficult upbuilding all past, Benmar Hills stands today in a position of unrivaled advantage.

And today marks her identification with the interests of California's largest and most successful subdivider—Frank Meline.

Today Mr. Philip Norton, one of the chief executives of the Meline Organization, takes active charge as sales manager of the Southern California Corporation in the development of Benmar Hills. Without severing his connections with the Meline Company, he has been loaned by Mr. Meline to the Southern California Corporation, of which Mr. Meline is a director.

At the same time comes the announcement that dirt will begin to fly today in every section of the tract, as the extensive street and sidewalk development gets under way. These, and all other improvements, are securely financed and will be pushed to completion with the utmost speed.

Everything for Rapid Growth

Burbank holds the key position on San Fernando Boulevard between Los Angeles and the marvelous San Fernando Valley. She has everything needed for swift and permanent growth.

The main Coast and Valley line of the Southern Pacific Railroad; the interurban and electric car line; the main State highway leading to all central and northern California; interurban bus line; the natural gas line; electric light and power line; crude oil line and aqueduct water line—all pass through the city of Burbank.

Located on a mighty artery of traffic, Burbank looks out upon more than 80,000 acres of California's most productive land. With this vast source of wealth on one side and with Los Angeles, the Nation's most amazingly prosperous metropolis, on the other, Burbank is completely surrounded by forces which stimulate her growth.

Benmar Hills, the Ideal Locale

For scenic beauty and natural advantages it would be difficult to conceive of a spot offering more attractions and more desirable living conditions than Benmar Hills.

Every lot will have water, gas, electricity, telephones, finished streets, gutters, curbs, sidewalks, street lighting systems, boulevards, trees, good soil, perfect natural drainage, excellent view of both the valley and the mountains. Every lot is properly restricted to insure its future surroundings and is within the reach of good schools, car lines, railroads, good automobile boulevards and truck lines.

The plan upon which Benmar Hills is being developed provides for every needful and desirable feature of a model American Community. It embraces a civic center, carefully laid out business district, an industrial center well segregated from the home section and residential districts, carefully graded as to restrictions, public parks, playgrounds and an ideal arrangement for schools, clubs and churches.

The Hour of Your Opportunity Is Here

There is a time in every enterprise at which its feasibility has been fully developed and yet at which its progress is still young enough to permit of participation with a conservative, yes, even modest, investment.

There was such a time at Long Beach, at Glendale, at Hollywood, with their fortune-making histories. And the foremost authorities on the development of Southern California DECLARE THAT THIS HOUR OF OPPORTUNITY HAS STRUCK AT BURBANK.

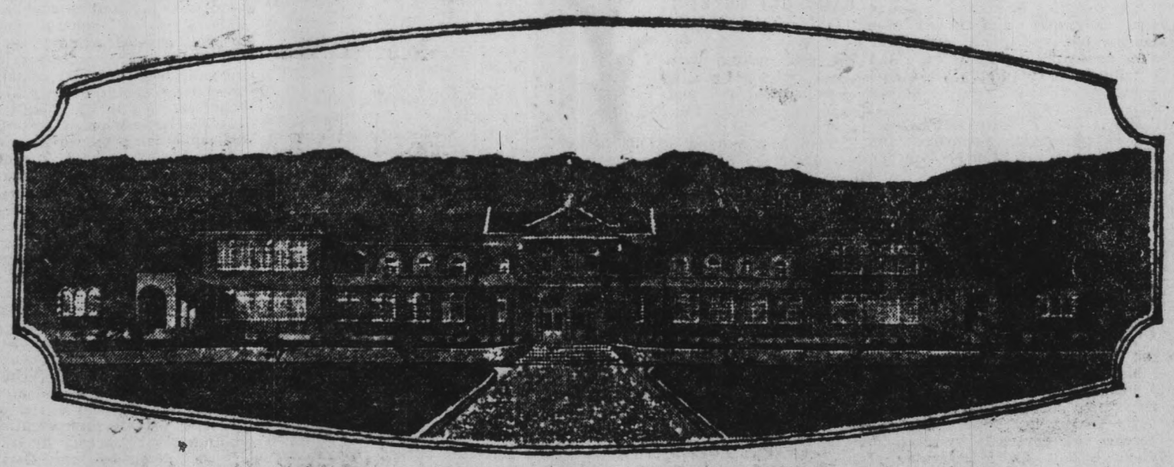
Points of Official Recognition

Burbank has accepted deeds to the 20-acre site for a model civic center in Benmar Hills under an agreement to construct its new city hall and other public buildings on this site.

The city has also accepted as laid out the entire street and boulevard system of Benmar Hills together with sites for public parks and playgrounds.

The new Burbank High School, erected at a cost of more than $250,000, has just been completed in Benmar Hills. The next grammar school will be erected in this tract upon a site already purchased and paid for.

A $50,000 bond issue has been voted to construct a reservoir in the Foothill Park of Benmar Hills.



Burbank's New $250,000 High School in Benmar Hills

Come out to Benmar Hills today and pass judgment yourself. You will find our beautiful tract office standing on San Fernando Boulevard, just beyond the business section of Burbank. As home builder or investor you may expect to find Benmar Hills one of California's most beautiful suburbs and a place for an investment of untold possibilities.

The Present Opportunity

Never was a moment more opportune than the present for developing co-operation between the merchants of Glendale and the shopping public.

Glendale has gained an enviable reputation abroad. It is a city whose fame is known even beyond the seven seas.

The merchants of Glendale form a constituent part of the people. They have pioneered in helping to build the present Glendale. They have shared in the hopes and the aspirations with their neighbors; they have had a part in the progress of the community. They believe in Glendale and in its destiny as a leader among American cities.

Wherever merchants gather across the length and breadth of this great country of ours; wherever the wheels of industry turn; wherever business men discuss the ideal shopping city, the name of Glendale invariably is mentioned. Ask the average man of affairs in the country to name the fastest growing city in America and he will invariably say, "Glendale."

Help to keep Glendale's name in the forefront of ideal shopping cities in America by patronizing the merchants who are working shoulder to shoulder with you for the civic ideals which have made Glendale great.

BABSON TALKS ABOUT PRESENT COAL SITUATION

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Oct. 19, 1923.—There seems to be plenty of coal according to a statement issued today by Roger W. Babson, the statistician, who has just completed a survey of the coal situation.

"A year ago, this country was emerging from the chaos of the great bituminous coal strike of 1922," says Mr. Babson. "The output for practically five months, April through August, was held on a minimum level. As a result, the total production of bituminous coal last year was the smallest in twelve years. Not only were stock of coal low, but transportation facilities were unable to meet the urgent demand from manufacturing interests. It was difficult to obtain prompt and adequate deliveries Consequently, prices of coal soared and remained high during the fall and early winter period.

"The average price of soft coal in October, 1922, was $4.40 per ton at the mine—a level 266 per cent over the pre-war average. Today we find contrary conditions. A strike this year was avoided and production held on practically a record basis. During the first 230 working days of this year, the output has exceeded 418,435,000 tons against 271,015,000 tons during the same period last year. In fact, we have produced more coal to date than was brought to the surface during the entire 12 months of 1922, the exact figure for last year being 407,894,000 tons. Incidentally, the output this year has been exceeded only once in the history of this country, that was in 1918, when 579,385,000 tons were produced. It is not surprising in view of current figures that commercial stocks of bituminous coal jumped. Statistics show that on September 1, stocks were estimated at 56,000,000 tons, or the highest volume since April, 1922. Present stocks represent an increase of 35 per cent over the low last March and 300 per cent over a year ago.

"The effect of excessive soft coal production, large and increasing stocks, diminishing, industrial demand and relatively favorable railroad conditions has been pulling the price level down month after month. With little interruption, prices have continued downward since August, 1922. Today, the price at the mines is approximately $2.40 per ton, or 100 per cent over pre-war levels, compared with 266 per cent a year ago. Economically, there cannot be a further marked price decline. In fact, conditions point toward a firm price level over the fall and winter months. We are now entering the period of maximum consumption and the customary seasonal strain on our railroads. Stock protection over the fall and early winter period should not be postponed.

"So far as the securities of coal companies are concerned, there is no occasion for anyone to become optimistic. To be sure, in the list of stocks and bonds of companies representative of the soft coal industry, there is wide variety. The stocks of the older and better-known companies are, by no means, low in price. In view of the general trend in the speculative markets, there is no incentive for purchasing. For the long pull, stockholders must bear the brunt of the struggle which the industry faces against the pressure of rising costs through union demands on the one hand, and a condition of over-production combined with increasing favor for oil as fuel to limit the selling price on the other.

"Bonds issued by a coal mining company can hardly be said to have the qualifications commending them to conservative investors. In the first place, the mining industry represents a liquidating proposition, that is, each ton of coal taken out reduces the assets ultimately available. Serial maturities, or a sinking fund charge, have been adopted in some cases to meet this objection. But such a fixed charge entails a serious depletion of working capital in times of severe competition. In any event, it must be obvious even on casual reflection that, after a period of years of large demand and good prices for coal such as we have had, any new borrowing either to expand mining operations or carry a large inventory, does not evidence conservatism.

"Under the present outlook for business the Babson chart shows it this week at 10 per cent below normal. I would rather have the bond of the power company or railroad which uses the coal than to cast my lot with the fortunes of the coal mining industry."

There was a high pitch of interest in the expositions of the first chapters of Genesis which were begun last Sunday morning by Keith L. Brooks before the Presbyterian brotherhood Bible class meeting at the city council rooms at 9:30. Mr. Brooks sought to show that the first verse of Genesis described a primeval creation complete in itself perhaps millions of years ago, and that the record of the six days' work described one had to do with the reconstruction of the earth following a cataclysimic judgment described in the second verse. He maintained that the six days' work was not a description of creation in the beginning. Next Sunday morning at the same hour he will begin the study of the first three days' work, showing how the earth was prepared for the habitation of man, and a new order of animal life, and how perfectly everything here described fits in with the findings of science.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

With a large attendance and a splendid program the local P.-T. A. held its second meeting of the year at the school auditorium Thursday afternoon, President Mrs. C. W. Angier presiding. It was decided during the business session to donate $10 to the seventh grade, and $10 to the eighth grade, for which each grade will purchase shrubs to beautify part of the school grounds. Each grade will care for their own garden and they will be judged later in the year. The outstanding feature of the program was a talk by Mrs. H. R. Archbold of South Pasadena. Mrs. Archbold is chairman of parents' reading for the first district and her subject covered the purposes of P.-T. A. and its work. A delightful musical program was given by Miss Evelyn Sears, Miss E. Rasmussen, Mrs. M. C. Larson, children from the 6th, 7th and 8th grades. Mrs. Charles Reinhard and Mrs. T. O. Potts were co-hostess during the social hour and Mrs. F. K. Czerniski presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Zella Dunlop is spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dunlop of Mountain avenue. Miss Dunlop is a student at the Hollywood High school.

A letter from Mrs. Belle Miller, former resident of La Crescenta, brings the glad tidings of the safety of her daughter, Mrs. Willis LaMott of Tokio. Mr. and Mrs. Lamott were summering in the mountains and while their home was not in the fire zone they will not be able to return on account of the shortage of food.

Mrs. Robert Wildhack and daughter, Marjorie, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Montague Glass of Pasadena for the week-end.

Miss Adelaide Madsen of Minneapolis, Minn., is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. O. C. Miller of West Montrose avenue.

The first dance of the season under the auspices of the La Crescenta Woman's Club was given at the school auditorium last evening, with a record attendance. The hostess of the evening were members of the entertainment commitee. The refreshment tables were presided over by Mrs. M. S. Collins, Mrs. C. A. Haskins, Mrs. T. S. Minford, Mrs. M. B. Darrow, Miss Delia Bastable, Miss A. W. Brown and Mrs. E. N. Nettleton. Cakes donated by Mrs. Seymour Thomas and Mrs. C. A. Haskins were chanced off and added substantially to the total receipts of the evening.

DRAMA SECTION HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

Mrs. Campbell Urges All to Attend the Bible Section Sessions

Announcement of committee chairmen and other details of business in connection with the year's work were made at the first meeting of the season of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club held Friday afternoon in the foyer of the clubhouse with the new curator, Mrs. Max Green, presiding. The section will put on its annual production of plays some time in March. Mrs. Daniel Campbell, who was present, expressed the desire that the drama and music section would put on an evening's entertainment during the district convention of women's clubs to be held in Glendale in April.

Committee chairmen for the year will include Mrs. Chester Kling, publicity; Mrs. Colin Cable, courtesy; Mrs. W. E. Halstead, hostess. The section voted unanimously that refreshments served during the social hour following the regular study period should be kept very simple and limited to tea or coffee and one other article, either cake, wafers or sandwiches.

Mrs. Green reported on attending a district conference of drama on last Monday, when one of the speakers was the director of the Pasadena Community Players, which have done splendid work. He stated that it was only through such groups as the drama section and kindred organizations and their combined efforts that the aim of lifting the morale of the theater could be accomplished.

Members of the drama section are to serve the Kiwanis club luncheons on the fourth and fifth Fridays in November. The section is to have the midway concession, "The Streets of Cairo" as it has been named, at the club's society circus, Mrs. Green announced. On behalf of the executive board, Mrs. Daniel Campbell thanked the section for the splendid work accomplished during the past year and extended wishes for continued prosperity and success. She urged the members to attend the Bible sections that will be held the first and third Tuesday mornings. Miss Winifred Rouzee, who is just returning from the Holy Land and will be here in November, is to be the instructor. The Bible section is non-denominational and will be open to the public.

Mrs. R. E. Chase brought up the matter of the stage lighting, which is not quite satisfactory, and recommended that an additional trough of lights be installed back of the proscenium valance. Mrs. Campbell invited Mrs. Chase to confer with the executive board at its next meeting in regard to this and stated that as the section had given the beautiful stage curtains as its gift to the new club home that it was up to the club to stand this additional expense.

Roll call of members was answered by Mesdames W. L. Andrews, Bentley, E. A. Bode, Malvern Barker, A. L. Bryant, Colin Cable, R. E. Chase, B. L. Cline, A. L. Ferguson, Galvin, Max Green, A. P. Findlay, W. E. Halstead, R. L. Kent, Chester Kling, C. J. Newcomb, W. F. Nash, Jr., Parker, Albert Pearce, R. K. Snow, C. H. Temple, J. J. Luedke, Gowan, A. L. Baird, Young and Tanner. A number of new members have made reservations for the section but were unable to be present yesterday. The section's membership is limited to fifty.

At the next meeting of the section the members will read A. A. Milne's play, "Dover Road." Mrs. Galvin will give a sketch of the life and works of Milne and Mrs. Gowan will review one of Milne's plays, "Mr. Pimm Passes By." At the close of the meeting the members adjourned to the patio, where Mrs. R. E. Chase and Mrs. Barker served refreshments.

W. C. T. U. Meets at the Home of Mrs. Alexander

The regular meeting of the city W. C. T. U. held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Alexander, 824 East Acacia, was of exceptional interest and proved a real party when refreshments of salad, coffee, tea and cake were served by the hostess on individual trays.

The program opened with a fine Bible lesson by Mrs. Collins, her general theme being "Overcomers."

The principal address was made by Mrs. Bertha Dixon of Pennsylvania avenue, Los Angeles, county evangelistic superintendent and also superintendent of prison reform work. She told of her activities along these lines and of the many conversions which have followed the Sunday afternoon services at the county jail, the text of her talk being "My God will satisfy all my needs."

The treasurer of the union reported, and announcement was made that twelve new names had been added to the roster during the present quarter, bringing the total to 231.

A letter was read from Mrs. L. E. Brown of Sycamore Canyon, the only charter member still living, explaining that she is moving to Redondo Beach but wishes to continue as a member of the Glendale union.

A statement was submitted of the receipts from collections of the council held September 22, totalling $271, which goes to the state budget for the support of the various institutions maintained. The report was made by Mrs. O. S. Palmer, chairman, who thanked all who had contributed.

A donation of $1 was made to the Japanese relief fund

The next meeting of the union will be held the first Friday in November at the home of Mrs. Hadley on East Broadway.

Mrs. C. W. Bacon, first vice president, conducted the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Ruby Smart, president, who is confined to her home by illness.

SCIOTS VOTE BENEFIT FOR FIRE VICTIMS

At the big, and as usual, enthusiastic meeting of Sciots held in Odd Fellows' hall Friday night, the pyramid voted unanimously to make next Saturday afternoon at the Sciot circus a great benefit for families of victims of the mountain fire, Clarence Edwards and J. W. McGahan. The memory of Clarence Edwards is especially dear to Sciots, because he was one of the petitioners for membership. Had he lived, his petition would have been acted upon at Friday night's meeting.

About 180 were present at the meeting over which Toparch Bennett presided, and plans and prospects for the circus the order is putting on next week from the 23rd to the 27th, was the absorbing interest of the session.

ANNUAL RECEPTION AND WELCOME TO ALL TEACHERS

Again have the teachers of the Glendale public schools been made to realize that they are welcome and appreciated. The annual reception in their honor was staged at the girls' gymnasium in Glendale Hight, Friday evening. The guests were received by members of the courtesy committee of the Glendale P.-T. A., who were the good fairies of the eevning in introducing parents and teachers.

The hall had been beautifully decorated with fall flowers, so bestowed that they provided a background for the booths representing the various schools where the principals and committees of teachers dispensed delicious punch and home-made cake.

Mrs. Eustace B. Moore eloquently welcomed new and old teachers, congratulating the former on their good fortune in having Glendale as their field of labor. Mr. and Mrs. George U. Moyse, principal and vice-principal of Glendale High were given major credits for the standard achieved by that school and Superintendent Richardson D. White was recognized as the captain of education responsible for the high rank taken by the elementary schools of the city. The speaker dwelt on the value of co-operation and the close linking of home and school represented by the P.-T. A.

In her response on behalf of the City Teachers' club, of which she is president, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan referred to the beginnings of P.-T. A. work in Glendale, in which she had been privileged to participate, when Mrs. Chalmers Smith secured the first charter.

Coach Normal Hayhurst, president of the High school Teachers' club, made one of his characteristic, unaffected speeches in which he voiced the appreciation of his fellow instructors of the honor paid them in the evening's reception.

The program included vocal numbers by Mayor Spencer Robinson who sang "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," Mrs. Robinson serving as his piano accompanist.

Under the direction of Mrs. Florence Parker, the boys' glee club of Glendale High sang "Marchita," and "Bells of the Sea," very beautifully, Mary Sherrick acting as accompanist.

Little Corinne Fittinger played some charming violin numbers, her sister Marian contributing whistling solos.

The balance of the evening was very properly given to promoting acquaintance between parents and teachers, and general visiting.

HAROLD SWARTZ GETS FIRST PRIZE FOR SCULPTURE

Glendale friends of Harold Swartz, who was formerly a member of the art colony at La Ramada, will be interested to know that he was awarded first prize of $100 for his piece of sculpture work, "Adonis," entered at the art exhibit at the Los Angeles county fair at Pomona. Through the efforts of a Mr. Modra the county put up a real art gallery at the fair and a number of the well known artists of Los Angeles and vicinity competed for prizes. The exhibits included oil paintings, water colors and sculpturing. John Cotton of Glendale had a number of his pictures hung at the gallery and received first honorable mention.

At the present time Mr. Swartz is residing at the studio-home he has built at 4116 Verdant street in Los Angeles, just across the Glendale line. He was recently accorded the honor of being appointed on the faculty of the Otis Art Institute.

SPLENDID ARTIST JOINS GLENDALE MUSIC COLONY

Another splendid artist has been added to Glendale's rapidly growing musical colony in the acquisition of Frederick MacMurray, who has just arrived here from San Francisco and Berkeley and is now located at 807 South Maryland avenue, Glendale. Mr. MacMurray is a violin soloist and composer and a real master of his art, as those who have been fortunate enough to hear him can testify. He has studied both in America and in Brussels, Belgium, under Adolpho Betti.

Mr. MacMurray has the ability of sustaining three parts simultaneously. His method of playing triple stops is quite unique and gives one the impression of several instruments being played at once. Mr. MacMurray made his first local appearance at the meeting of the artists' section of the Glendale Music club, held Friday night.

RECKLESSNESS OF MOTORISTS GETS RAILROAD FOLK

[By Associated Press]

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 19—Railway crossing accidents, increasing at an average rate of 100 per cent a year, represent one of the most serious problems now confronting American railroads, according to Isiah Hale, of Topeka, chariman of the safety section of the American Railway Association which comprises virtually all the railway companies in the United States. A "Careful Crossing Campaign" of four months, June to September, has just been completed by all the railroads.

"Railroads are eagerly trying out every imaginable means of averting these appaling disasters," said Mr. Hale, "but the persistent disregard of the automobile driving public for its own safety has been the cause of driving us almost to despair. The remedy seems so simple, yet meets such open violation. Epitomized, it is just three words, Cross Crossings Cautiously.

"The railroads are convinced that, within their own organizations, 'safety first' education gets results. Deaths of employes on duty have been reduced from 4,354 in 1907 to 1,446 in 1921. This result has been achieved notwithstanding the much larger force of employes during the year 1921.

"In 30 years our country's population has increased 68 per cent. In that same period railroad highway crossing accidents have increased 345 per cent, and injury cases 652 per cent. These disproportionate increases are due entirely to the use of the automobile. In five years 9,101 persons were killed and 24,208 injured at railway highway crossings in the United States.

The fact that at least 50 per cent of automobile drivers do not look both ways upon approaching a railroad crossing has been demonstrated in a number of tests conducted along the Santa Fe railroad recently, Mr. Hale pointed out. A count made at a city crossing produced the following results: Out of 250 cars checked, drivers of 98 did not look in either direction; 49 looked to the right only; 17 looked to the left; only one stopped and looked in both directions, and 78 looked each way without stopping.

Instances of automobiles being driven into a passing train are almost as common as those in which the automobile is struck by a train, Mr. Hale declared. A typical list compiled by the Pennsylvania Railroad shows an increase of 119 per cent in crossing fatalities in July this year as compared with July a year ago.

TIGERS, CARDS ON EDGE FOR GREAT GRIDIRON BATTLE

Oxy Meets Stanford in the L. A. Coliseum This Afternoon

Twenty-seven vigorous Stanford footballers arrived in Los Angeles yesterday under the wing of Coach Andy Kerr, who will put them on display for all Southern California's approval this afternoon when the Cards tackle the Oxy Tigers in their third game of the year at the Coliseum.

The Stanford aggregation is improving in great strides each week and today will no doubt prove to Southern California that they are a bunch to be feared when they meet U. S. C. back in Palo Alto next Saturday. No doubt Karr expects to make frequent substitutions tomorrow and for that reason has brought nearly three full teams.

Last week's game showed that the second and third string men were almost the equal of the initial squad and therefore justify the move.

"Ernie" Nevers at full is the 225-pound sophomore that hits low and hard, no less than twenty times went through for yardage. So far he has been the oustanding star of the year. Normie Cleaveland at half is running him close second with educated toe, though Normie has had considerable experience, and his passing ability is a sure yard gainer with Jim Lawson and Capt. Scotch Campbell at the other end.

Capt. "Scotch" is the digit shouting position has developed an uncanny ability for broken field running and snatching passes from space and with "Denny" Dennis at the other half makes up a backfield combination that is hard to beat.

Coach Joe Pipal of the Occidental eleven is not going to merely try to hold the Cards, he is going to try to beat them. With Ebers and Snoddy out of the lineup, he will have a difficult job but the Tigers are a strong aggregation and have not been defeated this year. They are rather light in comparison with the Stanford eleven but are also extremely fast. Every indication is to a real game, a good hard struggle.

The preliminary game between the Occidental frosh and Bakersfield High school was scheduled to start at 1 o'clock in order that the main event might get under way by 3 o'clock.

ALHAMBRA DOWNS CITRUS UNION IN GRUELLING GAME

A gruelling game between Alhambra and Citrus Union on the latter's field yesterday resulted in a 10 to 3 victory for Alhambra. Both teams scored on field goals in the first half, playing about evenly for the two periods. In the third quarter Rhodes, Alhambra quarterback, caught a punt on his own 40-yard line and ran through the entire Citrus Union team for the only touchdown of the game.

ATHLETICS GO TO OWENSMOUTH FOR BALL GAME

Journeying to Owensmouth for its second successive road game, the Glendale Athletic club baseball team will take on the Owensmouth nine tomorrow afternoon. Last Sunday they defeated the Pasadena Monarchs at Pasadena, and promise to repeat in tomorrow's game. They have been putting up a snappy brand of baseball of late and it seems as though nothing can stop them. The lineup will be as follows:

F. Acosta, 3b; Jensen, 2b; Carmargo, ss; Easley, lf; Kingsley, 1b; M. Acosta, rf; Morgan, p; Faulkner, c; Harris cf.

SPORT-O-GRAMS

By FRANCIS WILKERSON READ

Somehow the western football fans do not get the kick they used to in reading about Harvard, Yale, Princeton and the big teams of the east. Their interest in eastern football is merely of a passing sort, except as they are concerned in one particular institution, perhaps their alma mater.

The reason for this is obvious. The west is producing football teams that rank as high as those of the eastern colleges, if not higher. For years the gridiron fans of the west had to look eastward for real football teams. Now the situation has changed.

There are three colleges on the Pacific coast that this year will put out teams the equal of any in the country. They are California, Stanford and U. S. C. For three years past the University of California has produced football machines that critics have been pleased to term "wonder teams." On New Year's day, 1920, the Golden Bears handed Ohio a terrible defeat in the great East vs. West classic at Pasadena. The following year they played Washington and Jefferson to a scoreless tie in a game staged on a gridiron resembling the famous Flanders fields because of its extremely muddy aspect. Last year, after winning the conference, the Bruins refused to play in the Tournament of Roses game, due to what they termed an unfair financial deal the year previous. Now it appears that the California eleven, in spite of all talk to the contrary, will prove the equal of the "wonder teams" of the past three years. There is no doubt that California is a real football school and produces real football teams. When a team goes for three successive seasons without being scored on, and promises to do the same the fourth year, you can rest assured that the college producing that team is a real football school.

Then there is the University of Southern California. For years the Trojans have been identified as a football institution, turning out great football teams. They played in the Tournament of Roses game last year, defeating the Penn State eleven. Their only loss last year was to California.

Stanford has always been a great place for the gridiron sport, and has been known as a football school. The Cards have had a slight slump recently, but promise to stage a comeback this year. They have a great team, and are causing California and U. S. C. much worry.

No longer does the football fan of the west think in terms of the Crimson, Old Eli or the Tigers. With him it is the Golden Bear, the Trojan and the Cardinal. They do not worship great football heroes like Tad Jones or Hugo Bezdeck; with them it is Andy Smith, Elmer Henderson or Andy Kerr.

Perhaps this new plane of superiority achieved by the west in football is merely a forerunner of what is to come in other lines of endeavor. Baseball is cornered by the east. It is impossible to build up a strong team in the west because eastern capital proceeds to take all the players. In football no such thing can happen. Thus it is demonstrated that when east and west can meet on a plane where money is out of the consideration, the west is equal if not superior in the athletic realm.

GLENDALE HIGH FOOTBALLERS HAND SOUTH PASADENA TEAM DEFEAT TO TUNE OF 26 TO 0

Dynamiters Win First League Game From Tigers; Howard Elliot Stars for Locals; Both Teams Make Numerous Fumbles

By HORACE ANDERSON

Glendale's Black and Red warriors came home from the South Pasadena game yesterday with the spoils of victory on their hands. The South Pasadena squad had been squashed to the tune of 26 to 0.

This game was the first league contest of the season and Glendale certainly made an excellent showing. The team work and form gave testimony of the results of the training the Glendale boys have been put through by Coach Hayhurst. But the fight was not an easy one, as the South Pasadena bunch was not as gentle in tackles as possible. Ryan of the Glendale team received a dislocated hip, but no other serious injuries were reported.

The next game will be with Citrus on the local field next Friday.

South Pasadena was outweighed about 15 pounds to the man, but this advantage didn't seem to count for much, as Glendale's line was held about even by the opposing forwards. But the work of Tony Elliott, combined with the services of his kid brother, Bud, Ronnie West, Ryan and Walton, was too much for the light Tiger outfit, which crumpled in the second and third quarters.

Glendale's eleven was given a surprise in the first few minutes of the game, when South Pasadena plowed through for three first downs, a forward pass and a penalty helping things materially to the Tigers. But a few fancy plays that didn't work and a couple of penalties in Glendale's favor lost them the ball, and from that point South Pasadena didn't have a healthy chance to score.

Walton replaced Bud Elliott, Bud having been caught with his fist and a South Pasadena man's jaw in suspicious contact. Walton featured with numerous runs.

Both teams played ragged football, fumbles and penalties being about as common as pom-poms. Glendale's line is the weak department of the squad, but is big and strong enough to be developed into a real wall. Cecil, a tough little guard of the South Pasadena persuasion, had a lot of fun breaking through and messing up Glendale plays, while Wood at half was also conspicuous on the Tiger side. Line-ups:

GLENDALE		SO. PASADENA
Lavelle	L.E.R.	Taylor
Dodson	L.T.R.	Archibald

PAPYRUS FAVORED TO TAKE THE CLASSIC

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Zev, the Rancocas Stables' brown son of The Finn-Miss Kearney, will match strides with Papyrus, English Derby winner, for international three-year-old supremacy and stakes of $100,000 at Belmont Park today in a race that promises to take rank among the greatest classic of all time.

Zev will go to the post despite the eleventh-hour development of a skin malady which it seemed today would force the withdrawal of the colt and the substitution of Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own, which was shipped to Belmont Park, prepared to race, if called upon. But the race committee of the Jockey Club after examining Zev, and receiving the report of a veterinarian, decided that the Rancocas star was fit and ended a day of sensational speculation in turf circles by announcing America's original entry would oppose the English champion.

IDAHO DEFEATS COUGAR ELEVEN TO TUNE OF 14 TO 0

[By Associated Press]

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 20.—Idaho's fighting football eleven upset a ten-year jinx here yesterday with a 14 to 0 victory over their rivals from Washington State College. It was the first time since 1913 that Idaho has won the annual clash.

Fitzke, Idaho's right half, was the star of the game. His punting was supreme. For eleven kicks he averaged forty-two yards and he continually punted the ball out of danger.

For Washington State, Hales was the star. He made big gains around the ends, and worked good on defense. Davis and Stivers, for Idaho, and Slater and Hickey for W. S. C., were outstanding players.

SOUTHERN BRANCH MEETS LOYOLA IN GRIDIRON SCRAP

Cubs and Catholics Lock Horns at Moore Field Today

Jimmy Cline, coach of the Southern Branch football team, is sending his men into the game with Loyola this afternoon with a determination to win. This is the last chance the Cubs will have to participate in a practice game before their first conference affair with Whittier next Saturday. Today's game is scheduled to be played on Moore Field, and will begin at 3 o'clock. The curtain raiser will be between the Cub Frosh and the Santa Ana High school eleven. The preliminary game opens at 1:30.

After a great deal of work, Cline has brought his team to the position where he believes it should be. The Cubs have showed that they are a ferocious bunch of Bruins and will try to lick anything. They are favored to whip Loyola, but the Catholics have a mighty good team and are just as likely as not to upset the dope.

The upset in the calculations caused by the Whittier-Caltech game last week puts the Cubs in rather a difficult position. They had been pointed to the Caltech and Occidental games at the last of the season, and now they find that they will have to meet one of the most dangerous teams of all, namely the Whittier Poets, in their first Conference game.

ENGINEERS AND SAGEHENS CLASH THIS AFTERNOON

Pasadena Stadium Is the Scene of Big Gridiron Battle

Cal Tech and Pomona collided in the only conference football game this week at Pasadena Tournament of Roses stadium today. Both squads are in the running for top honors.

Quite a stream of light should be thrown on the probable outcome of the league as a result of the mixup, for fans will be able to form fairly good opinions on the strength of the two squads.

Two things are certain. Techs' line is better than Pomona's and the Sagehen backfield has the edge on the Engineers. These points do not mean that the teams are balanced, however, for the strength of the Tech eleven as a whole is believed to excel that of the Claremonters.

Having been defeated by Whittier in the opening clash of the conference, to their own surprise and chagrin, Coach Stanton's men can hardly wait for another chance to show their stuff. This condition, coupled with the probable superior power of the Beavers, is doped to cause a fall on Pomona's part.

Nevertheless, Coach Nixon's line has been improving rapidly since the day of the U. S. C. victory over Pomona. And if it continues to get better, the Sagehens are to be wholesomely feared by other conference elevens, including the Technicians.

COVINA BEATS MONROVIA TEAM BY 35 TO 0 SCORE

MONROVIA, Oct. 20. — Covina High opened the Central League season here yesterday afternoon by trimming Monrovia Wildcats 35 to 0. The visitors' heavy line was a stone wall and their plunging backs made gains almost at will. All the scoring was done in the first half, however, the Wildcats batling desperately and holding Covina to a blank during the third and fourth periods. At the beginning of the game the mercury stood near the 90-degree mark. A record crowd saw the play.

The undertaker may be slow but sooner or later he will overtake you.

TROJANS FACE HUSKIES, BEARS TACKLE AGGIES

Seattle and Berkeley Are Scenes of Gridiron Battles

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 20.—Trojan and Husky, for the first time in history, today will stand face to face upon a narrow trail of mud and sand, defiantly challenging one another to cross the other's path.

In the depths of the horseshoe stadium, upon a sandy gridiron made treacherous by recent rains, but which should be fairly firm—thanks to a remarkable drainage system—the football teams of the University of Washington and the University of Southern California will open the Pacific Coast Conference schedule at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Trojans of Southern California are given the honor of participating in the biggest football game which will be played in Seattle this season, and with the football fever spreading like an epidemic throughout the city a capacity crowd of 40,000 persons is virtually a certainty and it is highly probable that thousands will be turned away, unable to purchase seats.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—"If the Oregon Aggies score first today they will beat California," said Dick Rutherford, coach of the Oregon team, this afternoon. Dick was watching his boys run signals, punt and pass in the Oakland Coast League ball park when he made the remark.

The change in the weather from the Oregon mists to the bright California sunshine had its effect on the bold athletes today. The sweat was pouring off them after they had been in action only a few minutes.

Coach Rutherford says he does not expect his team to win, but he does expect them to put up a stiff argument, and if they are favored with a few breaks in the luck they may make the game decidedly interesting. California has never been able to run up big scores on the Oregon farmers and Rutherford does not expect a big score.

ATTRACTIVE HILL SIDE HOMESITES, GLENDALE CREST

There may be more attractive hillside home places in Glendale than Glendale Crest, but the lot buyer would certainly have to go a long ways to find them. Nothing in this section surpasses this tract in scenic beauty, general appeal and chances of price advancement. With an elevation of from 750 to 860 feet this tract is high above the city. Every lot commands a view that is unsurpassed in this locality. It is, in every way, an ideal location in which to live.

This tract lies near the intersection of Verdugo and Sycamore canyon roads. It is near schools, the Glendale-Eagle Rock electric line, and is but a short distance from the high school. Everything that is needed is there. The winding roadways, which have a base of decomposed granite and will be covered with a surface of rock, add greatly to the attractiveness of this tract.

Horn & McDill, with offices in the Lawson building, at the corner of Wilson and Brand, have been chosen as the exclusive agents in Glendale for this tract.

SLOW, STEADY PROCESSES OF THRIFT PAY IN THE END

BY S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift

RECENTLY a man in New York City was sent to prison because he had stolen his firm's money. As the solemn words which meant his incarceration in Sing Sing were pronounced he said to those standing near, "Well, it doesn't pay!"

S. W. STRAUS

No, it did not pay him when he was getting along well, saving money and advancing steadily with his firm, to begin making investments that were supposed to yield abnormal returns. One dollar can no more be made to do the work of many with safety and honesty than one brick can be made to fill the place of many in a wall that shall be safe and sound.

It did not pay this man when, after losing his savings in crooked stock deals, he tried to recoup his losses by risking additional funds. And it did not pay when, to secure these funds, it was necessary to juggle the books of the company he worked for. Also when he found that money could be obtained easily in this way it did not pay him to begin leading a life of reckless extravagance.

Benjamin Franklin once wrote a little story of his boyhood days when he "paid too much for his whistle."

All those who are lured from prudent paths by the desire to pile up unearned riches invariably pay too much for their whistles. No, it does not pay.

The path of thrift is a safe one to travel. It may not seem to carry one into those enchanted places where money is to be found growing on bushes, yet it is to be noted that almost without exception the men in America who have amassed great fortunes have laid the foundations of their wealth in habits of thrift.

Those who are content to acquire possessions slowly and steadily and indulge only in such pleasures as they can afford, will never stand amidst the wreckage of a ruined life some day and exclaim in their despair, "Well, it doesn't pay!"

Fruit Juice Permits, Bootleggers' Income Taxes Worry Collector

Six thousand heads of families have filed certificates of intention to produce two hundred gallons of fruit juice annually for home consumption during the first nine months of this year, ending October 1, according to a report made yesterday by the Collector of Internal Revenue. For the entire fiscal year ending June 30, the number of declarations filled was 4816 compared with 6008 for nine months of this year.

With the vintage season on as many as five hundred declarations have been filed in a single day. In filing a declaration to produce fruit juice the head of a family signs the following statement under oath:

"I intend to commence producing fruit juice solely for my family use and not for sale or to be otherwise removed or consumed, and that I do not intend to produce more than 200 gallons of fruit juice during the present vintage season."

"I further state that if I produce, or have on hand at any one time more than 200 gallons of fruit juice during the present vintage season containing 1-2 of 1 per cent or more alcohol, I will give timely notice thereof, execute bond and in all other respects comply with the requirements of all regulations relating to the production and sale of fruit juices containing 1-2 of 1 per cent more of alcohol."

Hearings of cases of proposed assessments of Internal Revenue taxes and penalties against violators of the National Prohibition Act, are being held now.

These hearings are in line with a recent Supreme Court decision which held that a bootlegger was entitled to a legal hearing before an assessment could be made and a distraint warrant issued. The revenue taxes and penalties are civil in nature and are imposed in addition to the criminal fines meted out by the federal courts.

While the criminal fines may run from $50.00 to $500.00, the Internal Revenue taxes and penalties range from $500.00 to $2500.00. Under the law a bootlegger may submit an offer in compromise of proposed revenue penalties any time prior to a hearing and ninety per cent of the violators are taking advantage of this phase of the law.

Once hearing is held and an assessment ordered, a distraint warrant is issued and any property the bootlegger may posses is seized.

More than 800 cases of assessments against bootleggers, involving taxes and penalties amounting to approximately $800,000 have been heard and closed in Collector Goodcell's office during the last year.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

CONTENT

I don't envy the wealthy man,
Or the fellow with honors great,
I do the best I can
In my humble and low estate.
When all is said and done,
As a bee in a mighty hive,
Beneath the shining sun
I'm lucky to be alive.

I can see the sun at dawn,
And the flowers that bloom and blow,
And when the sun is gone
The radiant afterglow.
No matter what ills may be,
How I have with might to strive,
It always occurs to me
That I'm lucky to be alive.

So I try not to complain,
To envy or want a lot;
If others the prizes gain,
The winning may cheer them not.
And however life comes and goes,
And what sore ills befall
I try to be glad—suppose
I had not been born at all!

The breath of the roses sweet,
The shade of a friendly tree,
The turf beneath my feet,
And all of the joys that be;
A chance to work; some friends;
The blues away they drive;
Right there my fretting ends,
I'm lucky to be alive.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

Glendale, Calif., Oct. 19.

To Whom It May Concern:

In regard to our auto camp ground I am a camper. I came here last fall. I have a family. We have intended to buy a home here but are not able yet. I work every day but it takes all my wages to live and pay our little camp rent. I cannot rent a house. In the first place rent is so high it would not leave any of my wages to live on. In the second place they will not rent me a house because I have children.

Now if it was not for the auto camp I do not know what I would do. I and my boy are making over $200 a month. It is all spent in Glendale. And there are others the same. Now cut out the camp grounds and it will cut Glendale out of quite a bit of coin.

MARION SKINNER.

Glendale Daily Press:

During the World war the U. S. government had many athletic events for the soldiers, such as football, basketball, baseball, polo, swimming, boxing and wrestling matches. They endorsed boxing and wrestling especially; army doctors encourage it. Boxing and wrestling build strong bodies with courage and alert minds. The universities and colleges throughout the world instruct in them.

An editorial in yesterday's Press said: "Boxing is degrading to the young men of Glendale and is evolving backward in civilization." The writer closed by saying: "Boxing may be a case of evolution, but from the standpoint of real worth and value it is of the backward type and in no way advances Glendale's interests."

Now things do not hitch somewhere. The U. S. government and our standard institutions of knowledge throughout the world instruct in and approve boxing, while this editorial says it is degrading to Glendale.

CHARLEY BRICE, JR.,
President Glendale Athletic club.

Just Chatter

By John J. Mulligan

Out on the trail of the Santa Fe where lonesome days and nights are long, where nature never seems to smile and all is desolate and bleak, there stands a lonely "doby" hut, and in it lived a lonely man whose life and heart seemed just as dry and void of happiness as the arid land on which he dwelt. Despite his lonely sadness, however, he was always eager to lend a hand in driving away the other fellow's cares. Known to many, he was intimate to but a few and those few reading between the lines of life sensed in tragic letters red the sorrows of an earlier year. The only pleasure he seemed to get was in the companionship of a few choice cronies and these he'd gather to himself and hut where together they'd listen over the radio to the songs and laughter from the roaring town.

And one night they gathered as usual and smoked their pipes and held their peace while over the radio sweet and low came the lovely voice of a girl named Mary. And the old man held his breath and listened and closed his eyes and moist they went. His pipe fell to the floor beside him, but it fell no further than his aching heart. Down through the years his memory took him to other days and happier ones when another Mary sang to him in the twilight hours sweet and low.

The evening passed and other songs and still he sat there silent, sad. The music ceased and his cronies left him undisturbed and quiet and still. The weary hours of the night wore on, the stars faded one by one and then came the dawn, fair and bright. Morning passed, and noon and twilight, and when the cronies came again they found him huddled down in the depths of his chair and in his hand he clutched a picture battered and worn from love's caresses. From out it, sweet and fair and pure, the charming features of a young girl smiled upon the withered face of one who now knew eternal peace.

And I don't know whether there's such a thing in the medical profession or not, but the boys who knew him and bore him away told me he died of a broken heart.

GEORGE U. JUST HAD TO SEE THAT FOOTBALL GAME

George U. Moyse, principal of Glendale High, hurried home from the convention of principals and superintendents at Riverside, in company with Superintendent Bush of South Pasadena, Friday, that he might witness the football game between the teams of Glendale and South Pasadena played at the city last named on Friday. The score, 26 to 0, in favor of Glendale, made him doubly glad he had made the extra effort to be there.

The Moyse family is divided in its allegiance today over the game between Pomona, where Doris Moyse is a student, and Caltech on whose football team Hollis Moyse is playing. Sisterly pride is expected to trimuph over schol loyalty, however.

FARRELL, Pa., Oct. 12.—A crane operator was burned to death in his steel cage and four other men were so badly burned that they died in a hospital, when a cable slipped and spilled 70 tons of molten steel at the Farrell plant of the Carnegie Steel company last night.

AT THE THEATRES

"FIGHTING BLADE" IN LAST SHOWING TODAY AT T. D. & L.

The museums of New York City and the priceless collections of antiques of many multi-millionaire collectors of the metropolis were combed for art treasures used in giving historical authenticity to "The Fighting Blade," a massive production of a romance of the Cromwellian era, starring Richard Barthelmess, and released by First National Pictures, Inc. Many genuine antiques, including swords, cuirasses, furniture and saddles, were actually used, while others were copied. Students of that significant period in English history agree that John S. Robertson, producer of the picture, has achieved a production which is beyond criticism in the matter of investiture.

The children in the middle western Whitaker home play at making "movies" and a fire starts which consumes the home. The odd part of making the picture was that the house was burned at the ranch and the interiors, filled with smoke, were shot at the studio.

Karl Brown did some excellent work in filming these scenes. Several unknown players doing important roles worked in these scenes as well as a large contingent of minor players.

ALICE CALHOUN IN DUAL ROLE AT THE GATEWAY

Alice Calhoun, Vitagraph star, reveals her unusual histrionic powers by a masterful portrayal of a dual role in "The Midnight Alarm," which is at the Gateway Theater for the last times today.

In the opening of this David Smith spectacle, Miss Calhoun is called upon to play the part of a young mother, whose husband was slain by his partner. The part is that of a typical woman of twenty years ago.

Later in the picture she plays the part of the daughter, a sweet young girl, who, deprived of her wealth through the machinations of her father's partner, had been brought up as a waif and is found earning a livelihood as a newsgirl.

The differentiation of the feelings and sensibilities of the two parts are finely recorded by Miss Calhoun. Percy Marmont, Cullen Landis and Joseph Kilgour are the stars who play opposite her in this photoplay.

"Merry-Go-Round" is coming to the Gateway Theater, beginning Sunday.

"Merry-Go-Round" is a dramatic love story involving a poor girl of the Prater, the Coney Island of Vienna, Austria, and a high-born count, who goes to the Prater and courts the girl while pretending to be a "necktie salesman."

"CROSSED WIRES" TODAY ONLY AT THE GLENDALE

Mrs. Bellamy-Benson, who had worked her way up the social ladder from the third tub in the laundry to a place in the city "blue book," entertained at a "coming out" party—for her son.

She was rather new in the exclusive locale of the four hundred and she wasn't exactly onto all of the angles. She knew that it was quite the thing for every ingenue to have a coming out party and she did so want to give that kind of party. The big hitch in her desire lay in the fact that she didn't have a daughter.

But she had a son that she wanted to get established in the social sphere she dreamed of some day reveling in, so she gave a party for him—inviting every belle of that exclusive social circle.

The party forms one of the important sequences in "Crossed Wires," a Universal photodrama starring Gladys Walton which will be shown at the Glendale Theater today.

Oftimes to us mortals there comes some great deed or happening that completely changes the entire course of our lives. Some big thing that thrusts aside the smaller fancies and gives us a clearer vision into the future. Imagine a young man brought up in wealth, who had scorned work since he was able to walk and whose only ambition in life was to set speed records, in a racing car, along public streets so that he might gain notoriety. Then think of this same young man made to see the light of a successful future by making a cross country dash, in his auto, from San Francisco to New York in six days to have his father from financial ruin. There is considerable substance for a great story. Don't miss "The Drivin' Fool" at the Glendale Theater Sunday. It's the fastest six reels ever put on the screen.

LAW OF COMPENSATION

The law of compensation has further proof in the matter of road building. It is frequently observed that in the process of building a new road the material has to be transported by motor trucks over that portion of the road which is in good condition. This becomes a process of wearing out the roads to build them. Possibly if lighter vehicles were used the law of compensation would take effect in wearing out the carriers instead of the roads.

TAPE FOR COVERING WIRES

Electric tape is not the best material with which to patch leaky insulation on the high-tension wires, as it is loosened by oil getting on it. This is because oil dissolves the rubber compound which makes it stick. Use ordinary cotton tape to bind up the breaks in the insulation and afterwards apply shellac liberally. This does not look so well but makes a more satisfactory repair.

SALES HISTORY IS BEING MADE AT COUNTRY CLUB HIGHLANDS

PICO BOULEVARD TRACT IS PROVING A WONDER TO WHOLE SOUTHLAND

"Opportunity Is Combined With Pleasure" Every Sunday at This Wonderful Subdivision, Says Marvin Smith, Tract Manager

A City Will Rise Where Barley Grew; Plans for Dozens of Homes Being Prepared; Streets Being Cut; Dwelling Construction Has Started

The old maxim runs, "Business before pleasure," but tomorrow at Country Club Highlands the word will be "Opportunity with pleasure," according to Marvin Smith, sales manager of the tract. "Seldom if ever has there been planned a more complete program for the entertainment of visitors than that to be offered tomorrow," Smith stated. "And correspondingly it is doubtful if any property in the history of Los Angeles real estate has established a more enviable sales record.

"Each succeeding week sees this record reach a new high mark, both in Sunday and week day sales," said Smith. "To be sure, last Sunday was the single exception, but even then in spite of the early season rains that kept many prospective Sunday purchasers indoors, a commendable figure was reached. The same high total was even bettered throughout the week and all was in readiness for the establishing of a new record when along came the rain. Nevertheless, the sales were considerable over $100,000, representing determined buyers who had made their mind up to buy in this rapid selling tract and wouldn't be stopped by mere rain.

"One of the features of the afternoon program will be the daring stunts performed by the internationally known aviatrix, Miss Gladys Ingle. Included in her program will be her feature stunt of standing on the wings of a speeding airplane while it is looping the loop. This is the first time that this daring stunt has ever been attempted. The plane will take off from Country Club Highlands, and do all the flying within easy sight of visitors.

Other entertainers include Daredevil Campbell, Universal picture star, who will perform his daring jumps and parachute drop, and Floyd Reese and his original Club Royale Orchestra of New York city, which will play throughout the entire afternoon.

"Last week was one of our busiest weeks, in spite of the fact that the rain Sunday kept many prospective purchasers indoors. Our sales, though not as high as the new record that we set the preceding week, ran well over $100,000. In fact so consistently large has been the stream of investors and homeseekers who visit our tract, that I feel certain, weather permitting, that we will even better our best sales record at the conclusion of this week.

"Our big problem, however, is to get people to come to the tract. We have found from past experience that once purchasers have looked over the property, whether they are looking for property as an investment or homesite, that in the big majority of cases they are quickly sold on the advantages of Country Club Highlands.

"Without a doubt, the majority of purchasers, especially, those buying for purely investment purposes, are sold on property values here mainly because they are convinced of the certain and rapid westward growth of Los Angeles. These buyers maintain that with Los Angeles pushing nearer and nearer the beaches every day, that property values in this tract, in the direct path of this westward growth and fronting on Pico boulevard, the air line to the beaches are certain to increase.

"On the other hand, we have many purchasers who are influenced to buy here mainly because they are certain that Country Club Highlands will soon be one of the city's most beautiful residential districts. They point to the fact that the nearby location of three of the Southland's finest country clubs has in itself assured a distinctive home atmosphere.

"The fact that the property is high and so cannot be shut off from the cooling breezes from the ocean and at the same time is above any settling winter fogs, has also played an important part in influencing purchasers as to the homesite opportunities here."

GLENDALE HOMES IN DEMAND

Never Before Has Building Been So Brisk in City

The demand for homes in Glendale was never greater than it is at the present time, according to Mr. Sawyer of the firm of Sawyer & Bolen, 211 West Broadway. In fact, the demand is much greater than the supply. Nothwithstanding the amount of building that is now going on in Glendale it is not sufficent to take care of those who are desirous of coming in.

Most of those who are coming to Glendale, says Mr. Sawyer, are from the east. The influx from the middlewest and eastern states is greater this year than ever before. Friends tell us that their friends in the east inform them that if they could be sure of employment in Southern California they would be on their way within a short time. "Get us a job," is their cry.

During his recent trip to the middle west, Mr. Sawyer states he found a little activity along the building and realty line, but this activity, he says, cannot be compared with what is being done in Glendale.

"If those pessimistically inclined," declares Mr. Sawyer, "will just take a jaunt into the middle or eastern states he will come back to Glendale one of the biggest boosters in this section for Southern California. With the hundreds who are headed this way I can see nothing but a wonderful year. Invariably those coming this way are bringing a piece of change with them, all of which makes for better business in this neck of the woods."

The firm of Sawyer & Bolen have the following home building jobs under way at this time, with four more to be started next week:

A home to cost $7,000 for Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. DeLancey at 3626 Seneca avenue. This will be a 5-room stucco and will be modern in every way. Mr. and Mrs. DeLancy arrived reecntly from New York and will live here permanently. This home will be finished in about one week.

A home for Mr. and Mrs. Wisecarver, who arrived recently from the east, this firm is building at 1260 Crescent Drive, in Glendale Heights. This will be a strictly modern 5-room stucco, and will be completed in about 10 days.

For Mrs. Ella M. Baldwin, who has been living at the corner of Harvard and Belmont, this firm is putting up a beautiful 5-room stucco at 554 West Oak. When this home is finished three weeks from

GLENDALE AVENUE WORK TO BE RUSHED

Eleven Acres Bought in Burbank for Mixing Plant

As rapidly as possible the way is being cleared for the improvement of Glendale avenue from Cerrito to Monterey road, and of Colorado street from San Fernando road to the eastern limts of the city, according to reports that reached the Glendale Press this morning.

The one obstacle that was standing in the way of the early improvement of these thoroughfares was the locating of a piece of ground upon which to construct the plant, where the concrete macadam to be used in the road will be mixed.

This obstacle, it is understood, has been cleared away in the securing by the National Paving company of an eleven-acre site in the region of Burbank. Upon this land a complete mixing plant will be constructed. It may be used by both Peter L. Ferry, who was awarded the general contract for the Glendale avenue, and the National Paving company, the patented top surface manufactured by which concern will be used on both Glendale avenue and Colorado street.

According to latest reports the construction of the plants necessary for the mixing of these materials will be started just as soon as possible, and will be rushed to completion.

Miss Gladys Ingle, who will thrill visitors Sunday at Country Club Highlands

C. M. BRIGGS CO. IS ACTIVE CONCERN

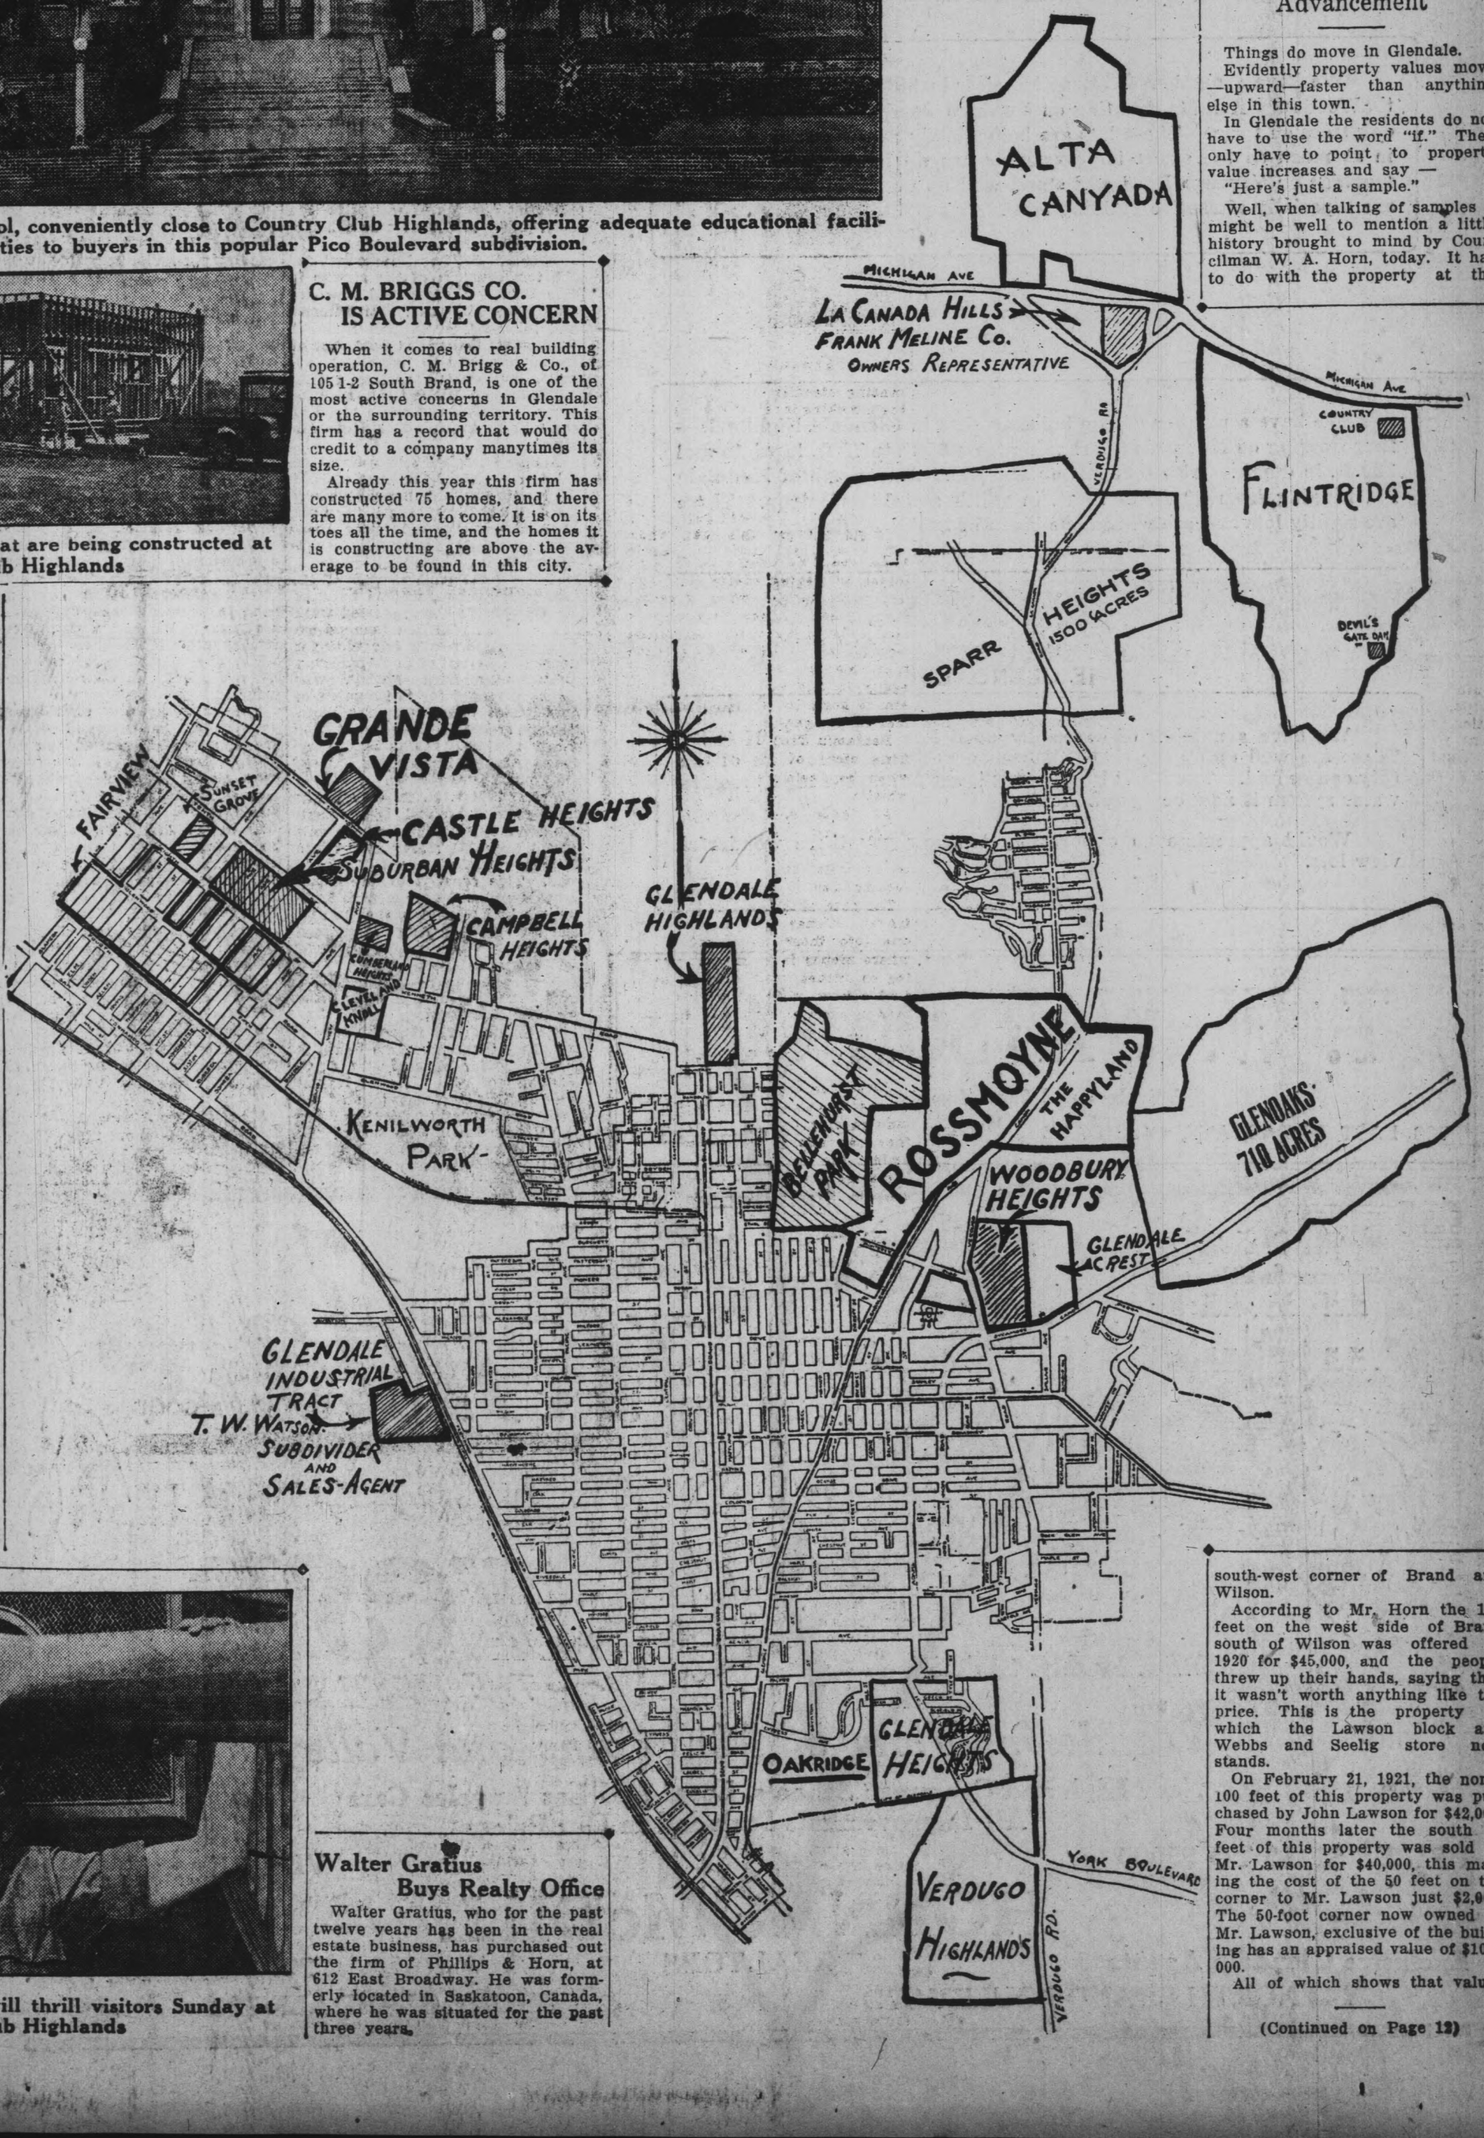
When it comes to real building operation, C. M. Brigg & Co., of 105 1-2 South Brand, is one of the most active concerns in Glendale or the surrounding territory. This firm has a record that would do credit to a company manytimes its size.

Already this year this firm has constructed 75 homes, and there are many more to come. It is on its toes all the time, and the homes it is constructing are above the average to be found in this city.

LOTS OF MONEY FOR DWELLINGS

Despite the cry of "can't borrow money," which is heard all over the country, Mr. Sawyer of the firm of Sawyer & Bolan, 211 West Broadway, claims that there is plenty of money to be had for legitimate purposes, such as home building.

"The fellows who can't get money," says Mr. Bolen, "are those who want it for wild-cat speculation—those who make a practice of buying on a "shoestring," and are making it a practice of getting rich on the other fellow's money. Such speculations should be discouraged."



Walter Gratius Buys Realty Office

Walter Gratius, who for the past twelve years has been in the real estate business, has purchased out the firm of Phillips & Horn, at 612 East Broadway. He was formerly located in Saskatoon, Canada, where he was situated for the past three years.

GLENDALE VALUES DO GROW

Concrete Figures Prove Claims of Real Advancement

Things do move in Glendale.

In Glendale the residents do not have to use the word "if." They only have to point to property value increases and say —

"Here's just a sample."

Well, when talking of samples it might be well to mention a little history brought to mind by Councilman W. A. Horn, today. It has to do with the property at the south-west corner of Brand and Wilson.

According to Mr. Horn the 160 feet on the west side of Brand south of Wilson was offered in 1920 for $45,000, and the people threw up their hands, saying that it wasn't worth anything like the price. This is the property on which the Lawson block and Webbs and Seelig store now stands.

On February 21, 1921, the north 100 feet of this property was purchased by John Lawson for $42,000. Four months later the south 50 feet of this property was sold by Mr. Lawson for $40,000, this making the cost of the 50 feet on the corner to Mr. Lawson just $2,000. The 50-foot corner now owned by Mr. Lawson, exclusive of the building has an appraised value of $100,000.

All of which shows that values

NEW REALTY FIRM LOCATES IN GLENDALE

This firm consists of C. D. Gulick, who is well known to the people of Glendale, and A. E. Nelson, who for the past few years has been prominent in the building circle of Los Angeles. The firm will handle in addition to real estate and building, investments, loans and insurance.

GLENDALE VALUES DO GROW GREATLY

in Glendale really are going up.

When the local resident is asked where the most money is to be made in Glendale all he has to do is simply yell "in Glendale real estate."

Of course, all of those purchasing real estate in Glendale during the past few years have not been as fortunate as the owners of the property at the corner of Brand and Wilson, but it may safely be said that there is not a piece of property in Glendale the increased value of which has not paid the owner a very fair return on the money invested.

Glendale is one city in which the investor simply cannot lose money in real estate if the property is "bought with eyes open."

GRAND VIEW SECTION DEVELOPMENT RUNS ON AT A WONDERFUL PACE

A Score of Homes Are Now Building in That Wonderful Locality; Plans for as Many More Are in Course of Preparation

PIONEERS ARE ASTONISHED AT GROWTH

Wide, Well Improved Streets Are Opening That Section to the Outside World, Bringing to View The Wonders That Are Nestling Therein

Development continues in Grandview.

Over a score of new homes are now under construction and a number of new bungalows have been completed recently, while many more are contemplated and will be built during the next few months.

Pioneer residents of the lowlands who can remember when this entire district contained only one or two houses, are now amazed at the number of homes which have been built during the intervals of their visits.

The improvement of streets in this area within the past few months is making it much easier for sight-seers and home-seekers to reach every section of Grandview.

Among the tracts in which great improvement has been shown within the past few weeks is Campbell Heights. This is being put on the market by Dan Campbell and Arthur Campbell, his brother, of North Glendale, who were among the first persons to recognize the desirability of Glendale as a home-community.

Over $27,000 has been spent for the improvement of the streets in this tract. Those paved now are Ard-Eevin, Highland, Ben Lomond and Idlewood, north of Kenneth road, and Cumberland road east of Grandview road to Highland avenue. Surveyors are laying out an extension of Highland avenue to bring it around the south slope of the hills to connect with Mountain street.

Arthur Campbell's new home on a ledge of one of the hills, at 1068 Highland avenue, is now about one-third finished. This is being built of frame and stucco. Interior woodwork on the first floor will be mahogany.

Contractor Joseph Currier of 423 Patterson avenue, who is building Mr. Campbell's home, started work this week at 1659 Ben Lomond avenue upon a six-room bungalow for George L. Bryant of Los Angeles.

Contractor Dick Michel, who claims a record for the number of new homes built under his direction, is now finishing one at 1450 Virginia place. Living rooms are decorated with jazz plaster. There are a number of closets.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Creer, who came from Cleveland, Ohio, about two and a half years ago, have now moved from 351 Myrtle street into their new home at 438 Kenneth road. This consists of a frame bungalow placed over a large basement which contains the garage. The foundation is tile ornamented with brick which match in color the Pioneer shingles. Mr. and Mrs. Creer are living in the basement until the upper part of their home has been completed.

Next door at 430 Kenneth road a two story ten-room frame house is being built for Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crandall of 411 North Isabell street. This is located on the southwest corner of Dorothy drive and Keneth road. The garage will be in the basement and will be entered over a driveway from Dorothy drive. Abundant space remains on the property for lawns and landscaping, a number of eucalyptus trees already being there.

Architects H. W. Charlton and H. D. Charlton of 111 East Broadway have commenced the supervision of a nine-room house at 530 Kenneth road for Mrs. Mittie S. D. Parker of 622 North Brand boulevard. This will be of English architecture, and will be built of frame and stucco. A heating plant will be placed in the basement. There will be two bathrooms.

MOVIEITES FLOCK TO RAINBOW VALLEY

Rainbow Valley is proving exceedingly popular among the motion picture people of Hollywood, according to C. R. Stowell, secretary of the Valley. This fact is shown by the following communication which has just been received by Mr. Stowell from Fanchon Royer, a member of the advisory board of the Valley:

have united for the accomplishment of a social project. That project is the Rainbow Valley Artists' Colony, now organized in the Big Tujunga, a beautiful mountain district easily accessible to Hollywood and vicinity, while yet removed from the territories which are thronged with pleasure seekers. In this quiet, attractive spot, actors, directors, writers, etc., are soon to enjoy all the privileges of a regular clubhouse, with the customary athletic features included, while also partaking of the comforts of a home in their individual lodges.

The advantages of such an arrangement for week-end outings are apparent. Moreover, the club and entertainment of the colony have already been subscribed for and will be provided free of expense to those who desire cabin sites in the Valley. These lots may be procured now through C. R. Stowell, secretary of Rainbow Valley, for as low as $248.

The advisory board of Rainbow Valley includes J. Warren Kerrigan, Douglas MacLean, Raymond Cannon, Lillian Leighton and the writer. Its aim is to give the members of the profession an artistic, rustic community where their own interests may be served, harmoniously, at a manimum expenditure.

GLENDALE HOMES IN GREAT DEMAND

now it will be occupied by Mrs. Baldwin.

A 5-room stucco home to cost about $6,800 is being constructed by this firm for sale at 633 West Myrtle. This home will be modern in every sense of the word, and will be finished in about two weeks.

A Spanish type stucco home of 6 rooms is being constructed at 539 North Louise for Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wiset, who arrived a short time ago from Detroit. This home will cost about $10,000 and will be finished in about 60 days, at which time it will be occupied by the owners.

For Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Lipold, a Spanish type home is being erected at 270 Sycamore street. This will contain 7 rooms and will cost about $10,000. When finished, 90 days from now, it will be occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Lipold.

Another home being built at this time is a $2,500 frame structure for E. J. Bielefelst, which is being put up on Irving street. This will contain 4 rooms and will be finished in about 60 days. Mr. Bielefelat is an employe at the local post office. This is the fifth home to be built by this firm for local postal employees.

ENAMELING THE FENDERS

There is a trick in enameling fenders, and the car owner who aspires to touch up the old boat ought to know it. Enamel is merely finishing varnish with lamp black to give it color. Varnish gets full of bubbles when being applied, and also has a habit of running into hills and dales. In applying it, therefore, put it on in generous quantities, then brush it crosswise. This keeps the enamel from running. The final step is to dry the brush and by running it lightly over the coating of enamel break all the air bubbles. If this is not done the job will be speckled.

LOOK TO BOTH SIDES

When about to pass another car, particularly a truck, the average driver feels that he has taken ample precaution if he looks to see that no other car is approaching. But this is only half the job. Suppose a car were parked to the right of the road and the truck had to turn out for it. The man behind would be forced off the road, or at best given a moment of anxiety. When passing anything on the road look on both sides of it first.

Hillslopes Lots in This Tract Beautiful Are Now Being Offered to Glendale People—The Prices Are Right and Terms Are Easy

The two most conspicuous things in Glendale today are the new roads of Bellehurst Hillslopes and the Security Trust & Savings Bank building now under construction at Brand and Broadway.

One marks a tremendous step in the development of Glendale's business district, the other, just 8 blocks north, is even more important because it makes accessible the most magnificently beautiful residence district ever opened to public sale within the metropolitan area of Los Angeles.

Everybody in Glendale has viewed with interest the rapid construction of these new hillside boulevards from the lower levels of the city. Only a few have actually driven up onto these magnificent roads to view the city below.

Today and tomorrow everyone who has neglected to see this beautiful view from Bellehurst Hillslopes is particularly urged to come to the property, because, according to M. A. Coney, sales manager for the Walter H. Leimert Co., it is doubtful how much of this tract will remain unsold when this week is over. Announcements have been made today and yesterday in all the Los Angeles papers of the formal opening of the sale of Bellehurst Hilleslopes. If the response to this announcement equals in any way the overwhelming demand created last spring when Bellehurst Park was opened, the much smaller tract of Bellehurst Hillslopes will be completely sold out in a very short time.

In commenting on the marvelous beauties of Bellehurst Hillslopes, yesterday, a visitor from San Francisco who has seen all the great cities of the world stated that this tract compared with the beautiful elevated residence sections which always beckon to the wealthy and artistic builders of homes. Property like this is always scarce, it always commands fabulous prices, and in a new subdivision like Bellehurst Hillslopes, where opening prices are low, it is sure to prove a wonderful investment. Frequently it is necessary for an outsider to come in and correctly appraise the values on property that has been overlooked for years by the people who live next door. Something like this is happening in Glendale, as visitors from other sections of the state immediately fall in love with the marvelous beauty of this southern slope of the Verdugo mountains untouched for years, although it is in the very heart of one of the most progressive cities of today.

TRACT SOLD OUT IN FIVE DAYS

A pretty little achievement in the way of a tract record was hung up a short time ago by the firm of Hamlin & Hepburn, 208 West Broadway. This consisted of selling out the fourteenth unit of Fairview, consisting of 42 lots, in five days. This tract lies east of Alameda between Glenwood and Fourth. The grading of this tract is finished. Water is in. Gas is on part of the property and will be placed on the remainder just as fast as it is needed. Already six homes have been constructed on this unit and others will be started soon.

TRACT IN SOUTH GLENDALE IS SOLD

Twelve Acres of Scenic Property to Be Opened

One of the finest and most scenic pieces of property in the southeast section of Glendale was purchased this week by Will C. Hope, Mr. Weldin, and Hal Hardin, all of whom are recent arrivals from Kansas City. This property, consisting of twelve and one-half acres, lies just south of the Glendale Heights tract and between that tract and the Verdugo Highlands, which was opened several months ago. The price paid for the property was $33,000, according to W. L. Truitt, through whose office the sale was made.

The intention of the new owners of this property is to subdivide it at once into one of the highest class tracts in this section of the country. The tract has already been surveyed and the work of grading the streets has already been started. The laying of the sidewalks and curbing will take place just as soon as the street grading work has been finished. Everything will be done that could possibly tend to make this one of the highest class subdivisions in this section, according to a statement issued by Mr. Truett this morning.

The first unit of this tract to be placed on the market will contain 59 lots, which will be large and which will range in price from $1,000 to $3,500. This unit will be placed on the market about November 1st.

There is a little romance connected with the purchase of this tract of land by these eastern men. For the past year or so one or two of these men spent the winter in Glendale and the surrounding country. While here on those trips they chose Glendale as the object of their affections. Upon arriving at that decision they went back east, arranged to close their affairs there and headed for this place. They arrived here about three weeks ago and immediately act to work looking for worlds to conquor.

Mr. Hope and entire family are already here and have become comfortably located. Hal Hardin is here alone, having left Mrs. Hardin in the east to straighten up the family affairs, preparatory to moving "bag and baggage" to Glendale. Mr. Weldin, the third owner of the property is still in Kansas City, but will within a short time move with his family to Glendale.

EASTERN FRIENDS RUSHING TO GLENDALE

Many easterners are on their way to Glendale. There seems to be no let up in the way the folks of the east and north are starting this way. There must be something here that appeals to them. It must be acknowledged that this section has a number of features that are really worth while.

F. W. Harper of 115 West Broadway, is the next to come forward with a list of those who have just arrived or will arrive soon to make their homes in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Myers and sons, Glenn, Jr., and Lawrence, of Olympia, Washington, arrived in Glendale on Wednesday, coming with the intention of making this city their future home. Mrs. Myers is a sister of Mrs. Harper. The new arrivals are stopping with the Harpers in their Montrose home.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Chambers of Baltimore, Md., are on their way to Glendale. They have been traveling several weeks and are expected to arrive in this city today. Dr. Chambers is a relative of Mr. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cromer of Oxnard, who are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harper are spending some time with friends here. They say they like their home city but after several days in Glendale they have about decided to locate here.

THIS REALTOR HAS IDEALS

"We take a real delight in making it possible for the rent payer to own his own home," said a Glendale realtor to a representative of the Glendale Press this week. He continued: "Throughout the operations of this firm the keynote has been to help the fellow who is bound through circumstances to the landlord. We try to make it easy for him to get in a place of his own and to meet the payments when they come due. This is a source of pleasure to us."

All real estate dealers would do well to follow this lead. The idea and ideal are ones to be commended. This is one way of applying the golden rule. The money that may be taken out of a given transaction should be of secondary consideration.

CAMPBELL HEIGHTS HALF SOLD OUT

This announcement should make those who are pining for a home against the foothills stop for a moment and think.

Lots such as are being offered in Campbell Heights are scarce. Every one is a real opportunity—it is, in fact, one of the last chances of securing a dream location for the home that has been thought of and planned for during the years that have already passed into history.

There are hundreds of lots that the homebuyer may secure in Glendale. Practically all of these are good locations for the home. They are scattered over the entire valley—some of them are high and airy, others are down on the level stretches. Some are simply places upon which the home may be built; others have scenic value.

But there is only one place from which an unsurpassed view of the entire San Fernando valley to the south and the green Verdugo hills to the north may be secured. This fact is now realized by those who are looking for home places that are out of the ordinary.

It is acknowledged that there is one best, and that is Campbell Heights. From any part of this tract an unsurpassed view of the entire valley from Eagle Rock to Lankershim is obtainable. The lots snuggle up close to the warm Verdugos, which in itself is sufficient to provide for them an unusual demand.

All of the street improvements are completed in Campbell Heights. Water, gas, electricity and telephones are already there. Nothing is left to the imagination.

Homes—beautiful homes — are going up in Campbell Heights. Two have already been started. One is being built by George L. Bryant of Los Angeles. This will contain six rooms and will cost more than $8,000. Another home to cost about $12,000 is being contemplated by Robert Hill of Los Angeles, at the corner of Ben Lomond and Cumberland.

The restrictions in this tract are high. They have been purposely kept high in order that nothing but beautiful homes will be constructed in the tract. The dwellings to be built there will be the finest that architectural skill can produce. They will be dream homes. This fact will assure those building there congenial neighbors and a social atmosphere that is above the ordinary.

The following sales were made during the past few days in this tract:

Lot on Cumberland drive to Lawrence Lurcer of Los Angeles.

Lot to R. R. Zane, an official of the Sun Drug Company of Los Angeles. This lot is located at the corner of Cumberland and Ard Eevin.

Lot on Idlewood to Persson Anders of Los Angeles.

Lot at the corner of Cumberland and Highland to Herbert Johnson of Glendale.

Homesite at the corner of Cleveland road and Cumberland to Anna M. Randolph of Los Angeles.

A home place consisting of three lots having a frontage of 144 feet on Cumberland road and 368 feet on Ard Eeven to Earl C. Pendroy. Mr. Pendroy will immediately put a landscape gardener on this property so that the land may be put in shape for a beautiful home which will be constructed at a later date.

SPARR HEIGHTS STREETS NEAR FINISH

Forty-five thousand dollars' worth of street work is being done by Peter L. Ferry in the Sparr Heights tract, according to an announcement made this morning by the Sparr Heights company. This work has been under way for the past several weeks, and already a number of the thoroughfares have been finished.

This work consists of sidewalks, curbing, graded and macadam streets, and every other improvement features that should be made in a strictly up-to-date tract. It is expected that all of the streets in this tract will have been completed within the next thirty days.

HOTEL WITH MODERATE PRICED ROOMS NEEDED HERE, SAYS MRS. LAWSON

Proprietor of Castle Apartments Declares There Never Was Such a Shortage of Rooms as There Is at the Present Time in This City

ROOMS SHOULD RENT FOR $1 TO $1.50, DAY

Forty-four People Were Turned Away by Mrs. Lawson Last Saturday and Sunday, Many of Whom Are Desirous of Locating Here

"One of Glendale's greatest needs is a moderate priced hotel, with rooms at $1 and $1.50 per day," said Mrs. J. W. Lawson, proprietor of the Castle apartments on North Brand, and who, with J. W. Lawson, is owner of the Lawson block at the corner of Wilson and Brand.

"There has never been a greater call in Glendale for hotel accommodations than there is at the present time," continued Mrs. Lawson. "The call right now is for rooms with and without bath at prices that the average person could afford to pay. These should be procurable at from $30 to $40 per month which is easily within reach of the working man. Of course there is a call for rooms and apartments of a higher class, but the average person cannot afford to pay $2.50 or $3 per day for rooms, although there are traveling men and others who can pay that. But the loudest call today is for the hotel with moderate priced rooms.

"This hotel does not necessarily need to be constructed on Brand boulevard. In fact, it would do just as well if it were located on a street that is more quiet. Orange street or Maryland avenue, within two blocks of Broadway would, in my opinion, be excellent locations for an hotel of this charactr. In many cities the idea seems to be to locate hotels on the busiest thoroughfares. I believe that streets on which there are electric cars and heavy automobile traffic usually are too noisy for features of this kind.

"This hotel should be at least four-story and should have modern elevator service, hot and cold water and everything that goes with a good hotel. I believe a building with these features could be constructed and that it would pay a good income to the person erecting it.

"Last Sunday I turned twenty-two people away from the Castle apartments, and a similar number were turned away on Saturday. Not a day passes but we are compelled to turn several people away. When these people ask us to recommend some place where accommodations can be found we are forced to acknowledge that there is nothing in Glendale that we can recommend. The people who were in Saturday and Sunday, mostly men, were compelled to go to Los Angeles to find an hotel at which they could remain for the night. This is a condition that should not exist."

When it was suggested to Mrs. Lawson that before a large hotel could be satisfactorily located in Glendale it might be necessary for this city to secure an adequate sewer system, she replied:

"That is true. We might as well start right by getting the sewer system, for I realize that large buildings cannot be satisfactorily maintained so long as individual cesspools and ceptic tanks are used. We cannot get the sewers too soon to please those who are interested in the growth of Glendale. It is one of the vital needs of this city today.

"I have noticed, especially during the last few weeks, that many of those desiring rooms are folks from the east who have come to Glendale to locate. All they want is a place to sleep until they can pick out the property they want for their future home. Some people are willing to grab a home on sight—others want to look around a little before making their selection. If we can take care of these people when they come here we are so much to the good. If we cannot, and they are compelled to go to Los Angeles in order to find a place to sleep, there is a big chance that we will never see them again. They probably will see something in that city that pleases them. When they do they are lost to Glendale forever.

"There should be someone in Glendale that is far-sighted enough to see that an hotel with moderate priced rooms would surely pay. I believe it would be full all the time.

"It is my belief that the two prospective hotels, if constructed, will not be large enough to take care of the demands along that line by the time they are erected."

ROY L. KENT CO. WIDENS SCOPE OF WORK

New Salesmen and Managers Are Added to Force

In line with its policy of progress and advancement the Roy L. Kent company, 130 South Brand boulevard, has just completed arrangements for the enlargement of its staff of efficient realty men. During the past year the business of this concern has increased at a remarkable rate. The firm has kept pace with the growth of the city. For this reason a re-arrangement of the company's force was deemed necessary.

E. C. Dalzell, recently of San Francisco, is now head of the sales department of this firm. Mr. Dalzell has had a number of years of experience in the real estate business, having been connected with some of the largest real estate offices on the Pacific Coast. He and his family have already moved to Glendale, having decided to locate here permanently.

Mr. Dalzell is being assisted in handling the affairs of this concern by several capable realty men and women. E. T. Allen, who has for years been in close touch with the real estate market in Southern California, is connected with this concern, as is Frank M. Schadler, who has for years been connected with the sales department of the Southern California Edison company.

A recent arrival from Kansas City, Mo., who has become connected with this firm is W. T. Carnell. While in the east Mr. Carnell specialized in down-town business property, and in this capacity he will be a valuable addition to this firm.

Perry Maxwell, who until recently has been connected with the roofing department of the Bentley Lumber company, is one of the salesmen of this concern, while Mary B. Wagner, who has been with this firm for several months, is now in charge of the listing department.

With this increased force of experienced workmen the Roy L. Kent company expects to handle all phases of the real estate business. It will take care of everything that looks like real estate transactions from the smallest to the largest.

The firm will maintain an investment information bureau where all information concerning investments in Glendale and surrounding territory will be furnished free of charge.

The office will remain open during evenings until further notice, so that those who are unable to take advantage of the service offered by this firm during working hours may do so at night.

ROSSMOYNE UNIT TWO IS OFFERED TO LOCAL HOMESITE BUYERS TODAY

Unit No. 1, Comprising Several Hundred Lots, Was Sold Out Within Sixty Days and Every Buyer Is Contented and Happy

CONCRETE STREETS ARE GOING IN

New Part of Tract Is Located on the Hillsides. Up Where the Air Is Fresh and From Where a Wonderful View Can Be Had

The second unit of Rossmoyne, the superb, is now being offered to Glendale homesite buyers, this constituting another opportunity to those living in "these parts" to secure a part of this most beautiful of tracts.

The first unit of this tract was sold out in sixty days. In this unit were several hundred of the most charming homesites that had up to this time been offered to the realty buyers of Southern California. That those living in Glendale, Los Angeles and the surrounding country appreciate home places above the average is shown by the way in which the lots in this first unit were snatched up. From the moment the tract was announced until the unit had been entirely exhausted it was one grand scramble, with buyers realizing that if they did not get their lots without delay someone else would put down the necessary deposit.

With the announcing of this second unit the people of Southern California have an even greater opportunity of getting homesites out of the ordinary than they did in connection with the first unit. The lots of this new unit are farther up on the hillsides and are therefore more desirable than anything that has thus far been offered.

The improvements in the second unit of this tract are going rapidly on. The sidewalk and curbing throughout this unit have been completed and the streets will be paved just as soon as the water and gas mains have been laid, which will be within the next few days. All of the improvements are completed in Unit No. 1 and already many homes are being erected in this section. The buyers of lots in this tract are almost frantic to start their homes and they are losing no time to do so as the improvements are finished.

Five-inch concrete streets and electroliers will be among the features of the wonderful Rossmoyne tract, according to Mr. Haddock.

"So far as we know this is the first tract in Glendale to have concrete streets," said Mr. Haddock. "We intend to make all of these streets five inches of concrete, constituting the strongest roads in any tract in this valley.

"In addition to these beautiful and durable streets, we are going to install an electrolier system that will be second to none in this part of the country.

"In this tract there will be about 15 miles of streets. In the first unit there are 281,757 feet of street, while in the second unit there are 418,776 feet of roads. The improvement of streets in this tract will cost about $350,000.

"Sales in this tract are averaging about $5000 per day. About one million dollars' worth of lots have already been sold. Seven homes are in course of construction at this time and within thirty days I expect that a new home will be started on the tract every day. Gas and water mains have been completed in Unit No. 1, and the work on the extension of these will be started in No. 2 immediately."

EDGEMONT PARK SALES HAVE BIG TOTAL

Two hundred thousand dollars worth of property has been sold in Edgemont Park since the opening of the tract six weeks ago, according to a statement made this morning by Mr. Hamlin, of Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway. Two hundred and twenty-five lots, representing half of the lots in the tract, have been disposed of, and if the sale of this property continues as it has in the past the next four or five weeks should see this entire tract disposed of.

This record, the members of this firm believe, is one of the finest ever hung up by any firm of realtors in this valley at ay time. They believe there has been more activity in their subdivision since its opening than in any other new piece of property in this section of the country.

More than 25 homes have already been started in Edgemont Park, and as many more will be started within the next two weeks, proving conclusively that those who are buying in this tract are making their purchases with the intention of erecting homes upon their lots and making those ideal homesites their future dwelling place.

Water is already being supplied to the builders in this tract, while arrangements have been completed for the extension of the gas mains and the electric wires, so that within a very short time—possibly thirty days—this tract will have all of the necessary utilities.

A big percentage of the lots already disposed of in this tract have been sold to residents of Hollywood. These people, said Mr. Hamlin, are tired of high rents and high property prices, and have taken this opportunity of owning their own homes and getting away from the congested city districts.

Very few purchasers in Edgemont Park are what might be termed "outsiders." Few easterners or folks from the north are locating there. It is the "home folks" who have realized the value of the offerings of this firm and have purchased lots in Edgemont.

The several hundred lots of this tract are covered with beautiful, waving green alfalfa or full growing walnut trees—features which, if properly cared for, will assist in swelling the family income and assist in meeting the payments on the lots and the home.

Arrangements may be made for the purchase of the home as well as the lot on the installment plan. The owners of the tratc are cooperating with the Edgemont Lumber company in this connection. A small amount is paid down on both the lot and the house, and the remainder is paid "so much" per month.

The location of this tract is one of its principal features. Lying midway between Burbank and the Ventura highway on the Dark Canyon road, it is close to things and is rigth in the path of development. It is in the one remaining section into which Glendale and Burbank must grow.

THOSE WHO KNOW CHOSE GRANDE VISTA

Mr. Donald C. Barbes of Chicago, Illinois, after investigating Glendale and surroundings decided to build his beautiful home in Grande Vista, in the beautiful Verdugo Hills. It will consist of 8 rooms and will be 2 stories high, of Italian type of architectural lines with extensive use of California stucco. The interior of the living room and dining room will be finished in blue gum with parquet floors and hand-decorated walls. Bathroom floors and kitchen sink board will have blue and white hexagon tile inlaid and ornamental colored mortar. The balance of the house, walls and all, will be decorated and finished with the latest novelty electric lighting system such as converted lights in living and dining room, Italian bracket lights and fixtures throughout the balance of the house. Also unit control system of heating. This is designed exclusively by S. S. Beran at the approximate cost of $30,000.

Then there is the beautiful Vista drive home for A. E. Key, of the Key Boiler and Equipment company of Los Angeles, who has decided, after an investigation of Southern California, that Glendale is the one place in the world for him so far as the establishment of a home is concerned. The home that has been started by Mr. Key will be two stories in height and will contain 7 rooms. It will be an architectural dream and its finish will be of the finest. It was designed by Architect Hust of Los Angeles, and the contractor is Roy E. Diem of Glendale. The cost will be $25,000.

Both of these homes are being constructed on villa sites, each being about one-third of an acre in extent.

The beginning of construction on these homes will show conclusively the type of dwellings that will be erected in this tract. The standard will be kept high by the company, which is determined to make this the most exclusive homesite location in the entire San Fernando valley.

Plans for several similarly preced homes are now being prepared for this tract, according to George F. McGuire, sales manager for M. N. Landon, 213 West Broadway, subdivider of this property. These structures will range from $20,000 up and all will be started within a few weeks.

The establishment of the streets and the public utilities are being rushed in this tract. The sidewalks and curbs are already in and the gas and water will be finished within a few days. Just as soon as this work is completed the paving of the streets will be hurriedly completed. The plan of the company is to complete this work as rapidly as possible in order that construction of homes in the tract may not be held up.

The beauties of Grande Vista are winning out. The view obtained from that tract is irresistible. A majority of those visiting the tract are coming away with a "lot in their pocket."

Mr. Geo. F. McGuire, the sales manager of the Grande Vista tract, is having designed a 6-room residence to be started about October 20th by S. S. Beran of the Beran Construction company, who is so enthused with the wonderful improvements and buildings in that paved section that he has purchased a home site in Grande Vista and will build a wonderful seven-room residence of the Colonial type.

Lots of men pray for things they wouldn't be willing to work for.

WEST BROADWAY WILL COME TO FRONT

"Watch West Broadway," said O. M. Newby this morning. "That is one street that will come into own before many months have passed. The folks along that thoroughfare are just waking up to what they have—to the good things that are within their grasp.

"Action has been started by the city council looking toward the widening of Broadway from Central to Pacific, and petitions are being circulated for the lighting of that street from Central to San Fernando road. As soon as that is done I expect to see Broadway west of Central develop into a real business street.

"It has everything in its favor. It is the leading entrance to the business section of city from the west. section of the city from the west. It will be aided by the opening of that street on the west side of the Southern Pacific tracks. Ultimately, I believe, a bridge will be constructed over to the Los Angeles bridge to Riverside Drive at Broadway.

"I can see nothing but a bright future for West Broadway."

COLORADO STREET LOTS ARE IN DEMAND

The demand for East Colorado street property is growing, according to E. G. Warren, 300½ South Brand boulevard, who during the past few weeks has been active in the sale of property along that thoroughfare.

"This increased demand," states Mr. Warren, "results from activity in connection with the Glendale avenue line, the work to be done on Colorado street, Glendale avenue and the Sycamore Canyon boulevard, and other features."

One sale on East Colorado made during the past week was a 50-foot lot between Adams and Verdugo, which was sold for $7,000, or $140 per front foot. This lot was sold to C. H. Hood, a recent arrival in Glendale, who intends constructing a business building on this lot in the very near future.

Other sales made by Mr. Warren during the past few days include the following:

An apartment house site at the corner of Maple and Wing to C. H. Hood, the price paid being $5,000.

Mr. Hood's firm belief in the future of Glendale is shown by the purchase of these two pieces of property. He believes that nothing can stop this city in her onward march, and that the coming winter will be the best Glendale has ever experienced so far as realty activity is concerned.

CRESCENTA TRACT OPENS TO PUBLIC

The grand opening of De Luxe Edition to La Crescenta will take place on October 21, according to an announcement made this morning by C. E. Culberson, owner of the tract. The subdivision is located in the center of the valley, affording a commanding view of the green Verdugo hills, the Sierra Madras and the beautiful Verdugo canyon. It is convenient to stores, community church and within three blocks of the car line. The owner expects to sell out this tract within a few days.

This property is improved with cement sidewalks and curbs. The first tract ever opened in La Crescenta containing such first-class improvements. There are building and race restrictions.

The lots are very reasonably priced and terms very easy considering the high-class improvements and ideal location.

"De Luxe" addition was so named because of its splendid improvements, location and restrictions, etc.

PHILIP NORTON HANDLES BENMAR HILLS

Real Building Program Is On At the Wonder Home Tract

With a record of successful operation in Southern California real estate that has made him one of the chief executives of the Frank Meline Company, Philip Norton has been loaned by Mr. Meline in serve as sales manager for the Southern California Corporation in marketing their beautiful property, Benmar Hills at Burbank. Not only the confidence of Mr. Norton in the future of Benmar Hills and Burbank, but also that of Mr. Meline is reflected in this event. While not permitting Mr. Norton to sever his connections with the Frank Meline Company, Mr. Meline has given the strongest possible evidence of his interest in the Southern California conference of which he is a director, by making available the services of Mr. Norton.

Mr. Meline has indicated that he will continue to manifest his interest by aiding Mr. Norton in every possible way. Many of the Meline organization salesmen will join Mr. Norton in the sale of the property. Both Mr. Meline and Mr. Norton are firm believers that Burbank, as the key city on San Fernando Boulevard between Los Angeles and the rich San Fernando valley, is on the threshold of a development that will prove even greater than the marvelous growth of Glendale, Hollywood or Long Beach.

"Those who have made money in real estate investments," said Mr. Norton yesterday, "are the ones who wait until the slow, painful work of building the foundation for a great growth has been laid and then come in time to reap the fruits of others' efforts. That is what happened in Hollywood, Long Beach and other towns where prices have now gone so high as almost to prohibit investment.

"Next in line for the successful investor is Burbank, located on the San Fernando boulevard, which is the state highway connecting Los Angeles and San Francisco. The wisest investors of all went into Burbank a few months ago when it looked like a gamble. They are already selling at handsome profits or are building on their property for the high rentals now to be derived. From time to time the position of Burbank has been improved until now it has the main line of the Southern Pacific, the Los Angeles aqueduct water main, crude oil fuel line, a natural gas main, and one of the largest industrial site districts in the state.

"Burbank is sweeping on. The great pendulum of growth is swinging now and the city has been brought to a point assuring continued success by the efforts of her pioneers. As it swings on to greater development, constantly gaining momentum, broadening in scope and importance, those whose financial interests ride with it will reap returns similar to the profits enjoyed by the early participants in the activity of Glendale and other districts of great growth."

Frank Meline has been personally observing conditions in and surrounding Burbank for months and it is his conclusion, supported by the opinion of his experts, that Burbank has already entered into a period of remarkable growth recalling the stirring days of Hollywood.

"The Southern California Corporation directors feel well content in placing the management of the sales of their property in the hands of Philip Norton," said H. L. Carnahan, president of the corporation, in making the announcement. "He comes to us with the highest of commendation from our fellow director, Mr. Frank Meline, who has entrusted him with many undertakings, all of which he has brought to a successful conclusion.

BIG WINTER IS PREDICTED

Officials of the railroads leading into California and those of the title companies of this section predict a bigger winter in 1924 than this section has ever known, according to Mr. Hamlin of the firm of Hamlin & Hepburn.

"These officials say," continued Mr. Hamlin, "that there will be a tremendous influx of easterners into this section throughout the coming winter months. A larger percentage tha never before of these easterners will purchase property. These people know now what California is and they are coming here with a full pocketbook. All of this will tend toward big business for those of this section.

"More people are coming in automobiles this winter than ever before. These automobile travelers are the ones who will buy property and locate here for good. They are the ones who are going to swell the population of Southern California cities. Glendale is sure to get her share of this tourist trade.

"I can see nothing but a bumper year for Glendale."

A good fighter manages to dodge a lot of trouble.

GLENDALE FOLKS:

Our advertising man is sick. My partner says he can't write ads; that it's "up to me" to blacken this page; so here goes—

"A Little Bit of Heaven;" "This Bit of Nature's Grandeur;" "California's Little Switzerland." These trite phrases and others keep jumping up before my eyes. They are from word painters' earlier efforts to tell you the beauty of Sparr Heights. Our latest offering, Montecito Park, an exclusive, restricted home and estate district, is in Sparr Heights in those Green Verdugo Hills in North Glendale.

But I know this sort of stuff doesn't tell the story as it should be told, because nine out of ten of those who come out and look us over say, "why don't you have your advertising man write ads which tell the people what you really have in Sparr Heights?"

Seymour Thomas, world famous portrait painter, lives up here, and one day I asked that he look over Montecito Park. His reply was, "why, Mr. Walters, my wife and I live up here and have driven by hundreds of times and well we know its beauty." However, I urged and Mr. Thomas allowed himself to be shown off the boulevard and back into the Park. When he returned to the tract office he said, "we never dreamed such beauty lay hidden just off the boulevard."

That's just it, folks, you must drive off Verdugo Road into Montecito Park to realize what wonderful home setting is there. Having read this far, go one step farther. Get into your car, drive out Glendale Avenue and up Verdugo Road to Montecito Park and you will realize how difficult it is for any man to paint a word picture of those green Verdugo Hills.

Yours truly,

M. WALTERS.

P.S. Our advertising man says he'll be back on the job next week with some real good copy. The kind that says, all—everything—well, we'll see! M. W.

MOVIE STARS ARE REAL CADILLAC BOOSTERS

"My word! Is this a Cadillac factory?"

That's what a recent visitor at one of the largest motion picture studios in California asked as he noticed with amazement the imposing array of crested cars parked in the driveways and in front of the gates of the studios.

Surmounted by the familiar coat-of-arms, it seems that cars of every size, model, design and color, from speedster to limousine, daily take their stand at the studio lot and await the return of their drivers.

"We could form a 'Kulver Kadillac Klan' right here on this lot, and the payroll which the list of charter members would represent could pay off the national debt of Jugo-Slavia, with enough left over to buy the Philippines," he declared.

Emmett Flynn, director of "The Connecticut Yankee" and "Monte Cristo," drives to this studio every morning behind the widely heralded V-eight engine.

Erich von Stroheim, who made "Foolish Wives," also pilots a "Cad."

Milton Sills, starring "Glennister" in Jesse D. Hampton's production, "The Spoilers," from the Rex Beach novel, divides his affections between two of the same make.

Then there is Mae Bush, one of the stars in the screen version of Hall Caine's story, "The Christian," and also a major character in Rupert Hughes' latest picture, "Souls for Sale."

Mabel Ballin, noted actress and wife of Hugo Ballin, who played Becky Sharp in "Vanity Fair," drives to work in a car marked with the name and sign of the heroic founder of Detroit.

The Court Motor Company, 235 South Brand, distributes the Cadillac in Glendale.

REMEMBER THIS ONE

Less voltage is required to jump a spark across a .020 inch gap when the compression in the cylinder is lower. If the battery happens to be very low, therefore, a better start can be had by opening the pet cocks. This lowers the compression and produces results similar to decreasing the gap at the points of each plug.

HERE'S BEST TIME TO GO OUT CAMPING

Every year, those who would go camping are confronted with a little problem: "What time of year is best suited for an expedition to the wilds?" The answers to this question are as many and as varied as the people who answer it.

To O. K. Parker, modern exponent of the ancient art of "sleeping out," the early spring and late fall are the most enjoyable seasons of the year to spend under the stars. At this time the air is brisk and cool, giving an invigerating spiciness to existence in the mountains. No mosquitos or other insect pests are awing; you may loll about in the shade of trees in the daytime, and sleep undisturbed at night without mosquito nets.

Big Pines, the new L. A. County Park, is an easily reached haven for the weary, not well known among lovers of the uotdoors. The season of 1923 has really been the first in which the public might enjoy a combination of good roads and perfect camping facilities in this region.

Mr. Parker reported to the Kelly Motor company, 1230 North Brand, local Essex dealer, that even better facilities are being arranged to take care of the rush of campers next year. A lake, to cover 25 or 30 acres is planned, and the superintendent, F. E. Wadsworth, hopes to have it completed in time for ice skating and other winter sports, this fall.

There are 12 miles of snow road to be kept open, but it is expected that the caterpillar tractors now used for grading the roads will be able to cope with the drifts sufficiently for cars to pass over them all winter. If this is possible there will be no more perfect winter-sport resort in Southern California than that provided by the county of Los Angeles for the general public.

"During the time we were encamped at Big Pines there were several Essex cars in addition to our Sedan which made the 15 miles of 8 per cent grade without boiling," said Mr. Parker. "This is an accomplishment to be proud of, as the average car needs a full supply of water when making this trip."

WHAT IS THE REAL PURPOSE OF THE HYDROMETER?

Expert Tells Some Things All Motorists Do Not Know

We are all acquainted in a general way with the instrument called a hydrometer, which tells us whether our battery is charged or what the freezing point of our brine is, or possibly whether or not the milkman has watered the milk. When we see hydrometers reading Baume, specific gravity or salometer, and some for use in liquids lighter than water only, and other for use in liquids heavier than water, we are assailed with the question. What are the differences between them all?

In order to understand hydrometers more fullyy let us first define specific gravity. It is the weight of a given volume of a substance as compared with the weight of an equal volume of pure distilled water at 60 degrees Fahrenheit. One cubic foot of water weighs 62.4 pounds, while one cubic foot of mercury weights 848.6 pounds, or 13.6 times as much, and this is said to have a specific gravity of 13.6.

In the same manner it has been found that water in which salt has been dissolved is heavier, the specific gravity increasing as more salt is added up to a certain point called saturation. At the same time the freezing point of the solution is lowered. As another example, take the automobile battery. The amount of charge is shown by the strength of the acid in the battery electrolyte. As the charge increases acid is formed which, being heavier than water, raises the specific gravity of the mixture.

Since the properties of solutions change very much with the change in their specific gravities, it is very desirable to have means of readily ascertaining the strength of solutions. It is for this purpose that the hydrometer is used. We know that a piece of wood or an air-filled tank will float upon water because it is lighter than the water displaced. We also know that a ship, in going from salt water into fresh water, will always (other things remaining the same) settle farther into the water, because the fresh water is lighter than the salt water and a larger volume of the fresh water must be displaced in order to support the same weight. This, then, gives us the clew that a hydrometer is in reality somewhat like a ship. The stronger and heavier the solution into which it is placed the less depth it will sink. Under these conditions if a scale is placed upon the narrow upright stem of the hydrometer the depth of sinking can be very easily read and recorded.

It is in the marking of the scale that a very great difference exists in hydrometers, for some instruments are calibrated to give the reading directly in specific gravity, by which the actual weight can be ascertained by merely multiplying the weight of a gallon of water by the reading of the specific gravity meter.

There is another scale which is very much used with brines, oils, gasoline, etc. This scale is called the Baume scale. The only difference between hydrometers reading Baume and those reading specific gravity is the difference in the marking of the scales. Both scales may be marked on the same instrument. In order to calculate the weight of liquid from the Baume reading it is necessary first to convert the Baume reading to specific gravity. It is very important also to notice that there are Baume hydrometers for liquids lighter than water and also for those heavier than water. Formulas for converting the readings are:

Liquids lighter than water—140 specific gravity equals 130 plus Baume reading, and liquids heavier than water — 145 specific gravity equals 145 minus Baume reading.

In using the hydrometer it is very important to have the liquid at the proper temperature or else to use the temperature correction factor, since the reading is materially affected by the temperature of the liquid. The standard temperature at which most instruments are calibrated is 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

In reading the hydrometer it is important that the liquid be in a quiet state and all the air bubbles out before the reading is taken. Then, in taking the reading in transparent liquid, it is desirable to place the eye slightly below the plane of the surface of the liquid, then raise the level of the eye gradually until the ellipse becomes a straight line. The reading will then be at the place where this line cuts the hydrometer scale.

In darker or opaque liquids the reading must be taken from above the line and the distance estimated from the reading at the upper meniscus to the principal surface of the liquid.

CALIFORNIA AUTO INDUSTRY GROWING

The growth of the automobile industry in the State of California is reflected in figures prepared by Will H. Marsh, Chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles for the month of September.

In 1923 registrations for that month amounted to 62,289 against 52,130 in the same month one year ago. Fees collected by the department for September of this year amounted to $164,267, against $138,267.25 last year.

In spite of this large increase in registrations and income the department payroll was reduced from $28,834.95 in 1922 to $25,503.54 in 1923, thus showing a reduction of $3,331.41.

During the period of the past five months in comparison with the same months of 1922 the department head is able to show a decrease in payroll costs of more than $15,000 during which time an average increase of 30 per cent in registrations and money is shown.

ROADBUILDING HAS REACHED WONDER PROPORTIONS

In its editorial column the Industrial Index notes that "road building has developed into a great—a really tremendous—industry in America," says the National Highways commission. "It is an industry with many ramifications—the mining or manufacturing of roadbridge building materials; the transportation of these bulky commodities; the distribution of these materials by agents and jobbers; the professional energy of the many engineers who have made a special study of this branch of construction; the activities of thousands upon thousands of road and bridge contractors; the armies of workmen who are out on the firing line of these innumerable projects. The investment in road building, when considered in its various aspects ,is enormous. And it will grow heavier with each passing year."

It will, indeed, grow heavier. Road building is shortly to be the premier industry (not considering farming) of the United States. It will be as much greater than is automobile making, in the men and money required, as that industry, now the first in this country, is greater than railroading, which for so many years held premier place.

And as yet we have scarce begun to build roads! In all our years of national existence we have succeeded in building less than three hundred thousand miles of improved roads, although we have almost three million miles to improve! Of course, the need of roads was not felt until the automobile demonstrated the economy of a new transporttation, but the automobile is already old; men and women now in college do not remember when there were no automobiles!

It is not enough that this country build roads; it must build roads which connect with each other, thus securing the maximum use of each mile, and it must build roads which last. As the several states have found that only a central state highway commission can lay out and construct a state highway system to which counties and towns can build their feeder roads, so must the nation come to realize that only the central national highways commission can lay out and build (and forever maintain) a national system of roads, to which states can build, as a part of their own systems, those roads which will make the national system serve all the people.

Ten years ago any sort of federal participation in road building was looked upon as a chimerical idea. Since 1916 we have spent hundreds of millions of dollars of federal money for federal aid roads. In another ten or twenty years we will spent not hundreds of millions, but a billion or more for a national highways system which will, indeed, lift America fro mthe mud.

SHIFT BEFORE DESCENT

When planning to use second gear in descending a steep hill always make the shift before descent of the hill is begun. If you wait until the car has gone over the crest of the hill it will gain so much speed while the gear shift is passing through neutral that the shift is made 100 per cent more difficult. You will either have to race the engine or apply the brakes until the gears will mesh in second. When the car is on the level your calculations as to the relative speeds of car and engine are not upset by the sudden acceleration of the car during the shift.

PENNSYLVANIA AUTOS

Pennsylvania, with a population of 8,720,017, has 921,000 passenger automobiles, or one car for about every nine inhabitants in the state.

'CHEV' STANDS SECOND IN SALES

The motor cars exhibited at the National Automobile shows are assigned to their places by an election, in which dollars are the ballots. The honor of first place goes to that car for which purchasers have paid the largest total amount of money for the preceding twelve months, ending June 30.

At the New York Automobile Show in January, 1924, three of the divisions of General Motors will have leading places. Buick for the sixth consecutive year will have the first place. Chevrolet will have second place and Cadillac the sixth. The drawings for space were made at the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in New York, October 4.

PEOPLE WANT LAW ENFORCED

Public interest in the headlight campaign recently made by the Division of Motor Vehicles demonstrated clearly that motorists are desirous of having this provision of the law enforced. While possibly not more than 25,000 citations were issued by traffic officers operating from Siskiyou to San Diego in the thirty counties in which a State patrol is maintained, adjusting stations established in the same counties report that requests for adjustment were made by at least five motorists to every one cited. The Division of Motor Vehicles according to Will H. Marsh, chief of the Division has, during the past two months, established more than 450 official headlight adjusting stations. Twenty-four headlight devices have passed the California test under the new law. Lists of those having been granted the approval of the department are now in the hands of the headlight adjusting stations throughout the State.

LYMAN TIRE SHOP OFFERS REAL BARGAINS

One of the biggest tire sales ever put on in Glendale is now being held at the Lyman Tire shop, 301 East Broadway. This is a real opportunity for the motorist to lay in a stock of tires for winter use at prices that are way below the average.

"All of the tires in this sale," said Mr. Lyman this morning, "are of standard make, both cord and fabric. You can't go wrong on the prices at this shop, especially during this sale."

Who Said So—?

A few manufacturers, caught between the devil and the deep blue sea, have finally climbed out onto one horn of the dilemma and announced that their "1924 models" (whatever that may mean!) will not have 4-Wheel Brakes.

Now they haven't a word to say in the matter!

The automobile buyer will tell them just what they will do—whether or not it is what they want to do.

And the informed buyer has decided he wants 4-Wheel Brakes.

The buyer always has told the maker what he must do.

And his word is law.

Every improvement ever made was at the instance and on the insistence, of the user—not the kind-heartedness of the maker.

For example, when a buyer first saw a car with "fore doors," he exclaimed: "I want that!"

Some makers loudly proclaimed that it was "impractical" to put doors on the front compartment of a touring car or a roadster.

Then a few months later, some manufacturers made bonfires of thousands of bodies of the obsolete type!

When the buyer saw the first car equipped with a magneto in place of dry cells, he exclaimed: "I want that." And, though some makers argued and explained and protested—they finally had to give it to him.

Then the self-starter came along.

Some of the early types were imperfect. One or two did crank the car, however—seeing which the buyer forthwith refused to break any more of his arms!

Can you imagine that any maker ever argued against a self-starter.

Indeed they did!

There were "Tag-Alongs" in those days, also.

So heated were the arguments pro and con when that revolutionary improvement in a motor car came along—the present controversy over 4-wheel brakes is mild by comparison.

And now—history is repeating itself.

Traffic conditions and rapidly multiplying accidents demand greater safety for pedestrians as well as motorists.

4-Wheel Brakes have proved the greatest safety device ever built into a motor car. There's no gainsaying that for "a demonstration is a revelation."

More than 1,000 per day of 4-Wheel Brake Cars are going into the hands of users.

No propaganda can offset the story those cars will tell—no argument offset the safety factor they will demonstrate in actual everyday use.

Having ridden in—driven—having put 4-Wheel Brakes to every test that his experience as well as his imagination could suggest, the buyer now exclaims, "I want that!"

And no maker is powerful enough to deny him.

So we move to amend that statement to read:—

"Those '1925' models will have 4-Wheel Brakes."

—and there's neither law nor precedent to prevent that "1925" model replacing the present one early in 1924.

REPAIR OF PACIFIC HIGHWAY IS BEGUN

Appeals of Siskiyou county and southern Oregon motorists that the state repair the Pacific highway are being answered.

The vanguard of a construction crew has arrived north of Hornbrook. Several miles of road will be reconstructed with gravel and some of the more dangerous curves will be cut down and straightened.

REMEMBER THIS RULE OF THE ROAD

The motorist who passes the vehicle ahead of him, unless it be a street car, to the right is in constant danger. He cannot see any signal given by the driver seated on the left-hand side of the car ahead of him. The latter may have signaled that he is going to draw in to the curb at the right.

TO CROSS U. S. IN OLDS SIX

An entirely new performance record for an automobile will be attempted when "Cannonball" Baker, noted race driver and the holder of several score of records, will leave New York October 8th, in a new Oldsmobile Six to drive across the continent to Los Angeles in high gear. In fact, "high" will be the only gear in the car, low, second and reverse gears having been removed.

A score or more of automobile companies have made cross country runs, either for speed, endurance or economy but none have yet attempted the run in high gear. During the last year, however, the Oldsmobile four has broken many hill climbing records and the new six is designed to meet the same performance records, and Baker asserts that the car will climb all the mountains easily.

Prior to leaving, the car will be inspected by New York newspapermen who will certify that the car carries nothing but high gear in the transmission and they will officially seal it, to prevent tampering. A letter certifying this will be carried on the trip across country, and in San Francisco newspapermen will open the gear case to see that it has not been changed.

A stock touring car will be used, with standard rear axle, standard transmission, engine, carburetor and every other part. The factory asserts that every part has been checked in the presence of witnesses to prove that no special equipment was included.

The route from New York will lead to Philadelphia, Cumberland, Md., Uniontown, Pa., Wheeling, W. Va., crossing the Cumberland Mountains. It will then be through Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Dodge City, Raton Pass, Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Flagstaff, Barstow, Cal., and Los Angeles.

C. H. Hunter, 208-10 West Broadway, local dealer for the "Olds," can tell you all kinds of good things about the new Oldsmobile 6.

WELCOME GIVEN ATWOOD TIRE SERVICE

According to Alfred A. Aya, vice president and sales manager of the Columbia Tire Corporation, the motoring public is swinging back to the buying of better grade tires. Mr. Aya has had exceptional opportunities to study this phase of the tire business during the last few months as he has covered 12,000 miles, calling on dealers who handle C-T-C tires, the product of this company.

"During the last three or four years," says Aya, "there has been a marked tendency for motorists to "try out" one make of cheap tire after another in his effort to dodge the rising prices of that time. Now, partly because he is 'fed up' and partly because the prices have reduced somewhat, he is gradually returning to the practice of buying quality tires. We feel that the C-T-C, a tire bidding for popularity on quality alone, although no higher than any other good tire in price, will ride into immediate demand on this wave of better tire buying. The Columbia Tire Corporation now has strong dealer connections in almost every large city from San Diego to Seattle."

Atwood Tire Service, who handle C-TC tires at 606 South Brand, say that they have already found a most cordial reception for C-T-Cs on the part of local motorists and that they are well pleased to see that tire buyers are learning to recognize the great margin of quality permitted by the western manufacture of these tires, due to savings on transportation, power and overhead.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

TIMELY TIPS FOR WINTER DRIVERS

By E. H. SCOTT

Power and Easy Starting Depend Greatly on Carburetor Adjustment

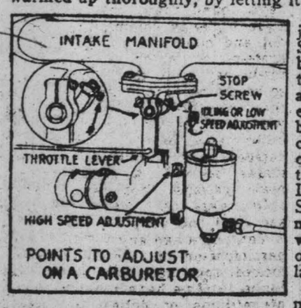
Take out the Spark Plugs from Nos. 1 and 3 cylinders and examine them. If the porcelains are white, or are a dry, clean reddish brown color, and the engine starts easily, you will be well advised to leave the carburetor adjustment alone, for the condition of the plugs is proof that the mixture is correct. If, on the other hand, the porcelains are covered with a black sooty looking deposit, it is a very good proof that the carburetor is in need of adjustment.

One of the secrets of getting long service from your car and small repair bills, is to know when adjustments are really required. Adjustments should NEVER be made until it is certain that they are necessary, and in connection with an automobile engine there are a few simple preliminary tests that can be made of nearly every part that will quickly prove if adjustment is necessary BEFORE you start altering anything. If, after taking out the Spark Plugs and examining them as shown above, you find they are covered with a black soot and the exhaust gases smell strongly of unburnt gasoline, then you KNOW POSITIVELY that your carburetor REQUIRES adjustment.

It is impossible, however, to adjust a carburetor properly, unless all other parts of the engine are in good condition, so first make sure that the Spark Plugs are clean, and all gaps set correctly; that the Battery is charged and the Contact Breaker points clean and properly adjusted, so that a good snappy spark occurs at the points of all plugs, and see that the valves are in good condition; then you are ready to tune up the Carburetor.

First test the joints between the Carburetor and Intake Manifold, to see that they are all air tight. If air leaks through at these joints, it will be impossible to adjust the carburetor so that the engine will idle slowly and evenly, and will make the engine very difficult to start, especially during the cold weather. Test the joints by squirting some gasoline around them while the engine is running, noticing if it makes any difference to the speed of the engine when you do so. If the engine speeds up, it shows that the joint is leaking air.

Before starting to adjust the carburetor, see that the engine is warmed up thoroughly, by letting it run for 15 or 20 minutes.



On carburetors that have a fixed jet, such as the Zenith, the High Speed mixture can only be altered by fitting different sized jets, and this type of carburetor should always be tuned up by an experienced mechanic. On most carburetors, however, the mixture can be regulated by a needle valve or adjusting screw. Some carburetors have two adjustments; one for Low Speeds and one for High Speeds. Others have an adjustment for the Low Speed only, while still other carburetors have one adjustment only, which regulates the mixture for all speeds.

If there is a Low Speed adjustment, regulate it first. Fully retard the Spark Lever and set the throttle lever so that the engine runs fairly slowly, then turn the Low Speed adjusting screw in, until you hear a pop back in the Carburetor and the engine shows signs of stopping, then turn it out, until the engine runs evenly and smoothly. Now, fully retard the throttle lever, and the engine should turn over quite slowly and evenly, without stopping. If it runs too fast, or stops altogether when the throttle lever is closed, then the throttle arm on the carburetor will have to be adjusted by turning the stop screw on it in or out with a screw driver, until the engine runs at the desired idling speed.

Where there is an adjustment to regulate the mixture for High Speeds, or an adjustment which regulates the mixture at all speeds, place the Spark Lever about two-thirds of the way up on the steering wheel, then test the carburetor by opening the throttle quickly, and as far as possible, for JUST A SECOND. The engine should respond instantly, without a moment's hesitation. If it pops back in the carburetor, the mixture is too weak, and the adjusting screw should be turned out a fraction of a turn, to make the mixture a little richer. If, however, the engine speeds up, the mixture MAY be TOO RICH. To see whether this is so or not, turn in the gasoline adjusting screw a fraction of a turn at a time, and test again by opening the throttle quickly. Continue to turn in the adjusting screw, until the engine commences to pop back in the carburetor when the throttle is opened quickly, showing that the mixture is now a shade too weak, then turn the screw out to make the mixture a little richer, until you find a point where you can quickly open the throttle and there is no pop back in the carburetor, yet the engine accelerates instantly. Finally, give the engine a road test, to see that your power and pick-up is all right. The above adjustment will give you the greatest mileage on gasoline, but may cause the engine to pop back for a few minutes, when the engine is cold. This can be overcome, however, by the careful use of the choker, operated from the dash-board. As soon as the engine is warm, however, the choke must be pushed right in.

Serves Long— Because It's Strong

A Sturdy Six—Not a Light Six

THE new Jewett Six is strong—with a strength that cannot exist with lighter construction. Jewett Six's strength is shown in its weight. It weighs 2805 pounds—200 to 400 pounds more than "light" sixes of its size. Here's what this weight gives extra:

It gives you a BIG MOTOR—full 50 h.p. Paige-built. It gives you a 6-inch-deep frame, extra cross-braced, rigid. It gives you Paige-Timken axles front and rear, extra stout to stay true; all-steel universal joints; springs 80% of wheelbase; stout wheels; strong bodies.

With such strength it's no wonder Jewett serves long. And of course Jewett Six rides easier than lighter cars—also performs better, due to its extra power. Try to pass it on a hill. Drive it from 2 to 60 miles an hour in high; accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds in high. Try THAT with ANY other car, regardless of price, and realize how fine Jewett is.

You can get a "Light" Six for $100 less than Jewett; but you can't get Jewett ruggedness, dependability and performance for a penny less than $1065. Many owners say Jewett's equal cannot be had under $1500. Let us prove it to you. [ads]

JEWETT BROUGHAM MAKES SOME HISTORY

Today will go down in automobile history as the date on which a new type of closed car body construction was presented to the public, according to Ralph B. Bliss, local agent, 206 East Colorado.

In the show room of the Paige and Jewett dealer in Glendale is on exhibition the new brougham added to the Jewett line this month, at a price almost that of the touring car.

It is finished in baked enammel by a process providing a lasting lustre, yet for the first time in automobile history is the body built on a hardwood frame.

Heretofore it has been a recognized impossible feat to produce a baked enamel finish on a body framed in wood—the heat of 400 degrees Fahrenheit and more necessary to give the lasting lustre would melt the glue in the mortises or would warp the best seasoned of frames.

Most automobile bodies with a baked enamel finish are constructed with steel frames, forcing the loss of the flexibleness found in wooden framed closed bodies.

By the new process used in the manufacture of this new Jewett body every panel is dipped and baked individually before being attached to the frame. The wood never experiences the enormous heat necessary to bake the enamel properly.

The all-steel panels which entirely sheath the new Jewett brougham receive three coats of enamel, three bakes and three polishes. They are finished the same outside and inside. If you were to rip off the upholstering on the inside of the brougham, the same high finish would be found on the inside of the panels.

This type of construction not only allows a high bake, but also permits certain radical changes to be made in other construction methods employed in building quality closed car bodies. These are principally in the door and window construction of the new Jewett brougham.

The doors on all quality automobiles today have concealed stops built in at some extra expense. The new Jewett brougham has a similar concealed stop, doing away entirely with the leather stop protruding inside the body. The door opens to a point where it forms a right angle with the body and is automatically checked, without the least strain on the hinges by this new type of a stop.

Another is the overcoming of the possibility of a ruined body resulting from a crash. The owner need not worry if he finds his side dented. The brougham can be taken to a nearby service station and a new panel substituted within a few minutes. The Jewett is again its normal self.

CAD. MAKES GREAT RECORD FOR MILEAGE

One of the longest authentic mileage records of a driver with one make of car, the equivalent of once around the earth every twelve months for twelve years, is the score of Patrick Gunning of Wilmington, Delaware, who has been piloting Cadillac cars owned by William S. Hilles of that city.

The first Cadillac owned by Mr. Hilles and driven by "Pat" Gunning was a 1912 four-cylinder car, which covered not less than 87,000 miles. The next was of the first V-type, eight-cylinder series produced by Cadillac, a type 51, which, before being traded in, showed a mileage of 125,000. On his third car, a type 57 limousine, he photographed his speedomoter this spring, showing 99,999 miles.

Five records have been beaten by the Cadillac Motor Car Company in the first six months of 1923, says A. U. Widman, Cadillac's manager of manufacturing.

The Cadillac is handled in Glendale by the Court Motor Company, 235 South Brand.

LLOYDS TAKES A MILLION RISK ON 'RICK'

Captain Rickenbacker can now realize his long-cherished ambition to conserve time by "making the territory" in an aeroplane, instead of what he regards as a "poky-slow express train."

As Director of Sales of the concern which bears his name, the famous Ace of Aces has long chafed at the restrictions put upon him by the other members of his own organization, and by the insurance companies.

While he considers an aeroplane actually safer than any other mode of travel except a steamboat—and proves his contention by statistics showing the millions of passenger-miles flown with a negligible number of accidents in commercial flying—President B. F. Everitt believes the Company is taking too great a risk when it permits so important a member of the organization to use this means of making his trips from city to city.

To offset, in some degree, this risk, the Company has been trying for some time to get an insurance policy of one million dollars, which would, partially at least, compensate the Company for such a serious loss.

The Company has been able to carry a large policy on the Captain's life, but always the insurance companies have inserted a proviso that nullified the policy and cancelled its conditions the minute Rickenbacker stepped into an aeroplane.

Lee Thomas of Detroit, one of the most indefatigable specialists in the insurance business, has kept pounding at the insurance companies on this subject, presenting them with stattistics furnished him by Captain Rickenbacker and gathered from other sources.

He finally announces that Lloyds of London, England, will take the policy of one million dollars on Captain Rickenbacker, such policy to cover accident or death in the case of flying—only.

LATEST OAKLAND PROVES NON-SKIDDER

The "True Blue Traveler," Oakland Six, stood the test.

One of the greatest non-skid demonstrations ever held anywhere occurred at the corner of Orange and Harvard at about 10 o'clock this morning.

With Mayor Robinson and other occupants seated in the True Blue, the driver of that machine, Clay Risser, cut all kinds of capers. The street was wet down thoroughly by the Glendale fire department and the Oakland Six went to work.

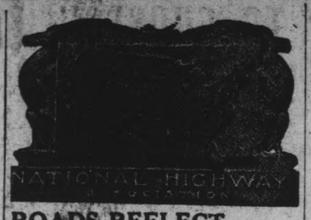
From a speed of thirty miles an hour to a stop within thirty feet was the feat pulled off by this wonderful four-wheel brake model. There was hardly a shade of a skid.

"Put a rear-wheel brake car to this test," said Mr. Portman, factory representative of the Oakland, "and it would skid all over the street—and you know the rest."

"The ordinary two-wheel brake car, according to accurate police tests, required 83.3 feet to come from thirty miles an hour to a complete stop, on dry pavement, said Thos. E. Ricketts, local distributor of the Oakland. The Oakland cuts this distance nearly in third, with its full stop record in thirty feet, a remarkable achievement and one that proves beyond question the superiority of the four-wheel brake principle as worked out by Oakland."

TO FOCUS HEADLIGHTS

Many accidents are caused by improper use of headlights. The lights of a car should be focused on the center of the road, not in the eyes of the approaching driver. The bulb in some headlights can be moved slightly backward or forward by adjusting a small set-screw. To focus a bulb allow light to shine on a wall twenty-five feet away. Move the bulb backward and forward until the circle of light on the wall is of smallest possible diameter.



ROADS REFLECT CIVILIZATION

Gibbon, famous historian, wrote "The character and civilization of any community can be properly judged by the class of roads it has."

The community which can afford a good road and is content to wallow in mud, is, by this standard, not thoroughly civilized. This may not be agreeable reading to those contented with bad roads, yet these very people will judge their neighbors by standards no more exacting. The man who can afford an automobile, a telephone, a lighting system, a warm house, and good clothes, and who walks, borrows his neighbors' phone, reads by candles, has a cold house and wears rags, is not called civilized by his neighbors.

A good road is as necessary for the enjoyment of the advantages modern civilization has to offer as is the ability to read (which was once the accomplishment only of the priest and the king).

The abandoned farm is seldom or never found on a good road. The illiterate child does not live beside a good road. People who live on or near good roads get to town, see pictures, mix with their fellows, enjoy a rich social life, visit each other, buy and sell quickly and easily, are in touch with the world. Those who live on bad roads can not even depend upon the R. F. D. if rain or snow lays its prohibition upon the carrier.

This great country is away down the list among the literate nations; one of the reasons is the difficulty of educating either child or adult where mud prevents attendance at school.

Gibbons' measuring rod may not be comfortable, but the facts seem to show it is accurate.

Roads to Suit Purpose

The board of directors of a great railroad system, before authorizing the construction of a new right-of-way, calls engineers in consultation to determine the amount of use to which the new road will be subjected. The present and probable future traffic is discussed, the number of trains per day and the size and weight. The expense of eliminating heavy grade is balanced against the saving in tractive effort. The question of ballast is largely affected by the speed of the proposed trains, which is in turn limited by the weight of the steel rails and the curves as well as the grade. The amount of income must be considered and much time must be spent in settling the location.

All these factors apply when the "right-of-way" is a public road, and not a railroad. But how often do political authorities delve as deeply into these details as they should? Seldom, when the road builders are political appointees and not engineers.

This was one of the fundamental reasons why the federal government insisted that no state without a highway commission, presumably employing engineers, could benefit from federal aid. The building of a road is a political matter only in the raising of bonds or taxes. Its actual location, kind, material, construction, width, gradient, drainage, and materials, are wholly matters for experienced road engineers. Taxpayers who submit to any others authorizing the construction of their roads are throwing their money away.

Concrete Used Many Years

The first known concrete highway was laid down by the Romans in England, between Westchester and London. Excavations uncovered several sections, in excellent condition. Apparently the material was a natural cement mixed with pebbles and worked into a roadbed about 12 inches thick.

The art seems to have been lost for nearly two thousand years, the next example being in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1872, when some concrete pavements, still in use and good condition, were made.

In our own country, Bellefontaine, Ohio, gets credit for being the first municipality to experiment with cement streets, in 1893. But it is really Wayne county, Michigan, the Detroit automobile factory region, which made the concrete highway known to the nation. This early experiment was in 1907. In 1909 less than half a million square yards of concrete were laid (perhaps 50 miles), while in 1921 more than 60,000,000 square yards were laid (more than 7,000 miles).

One of the great advantages of concrete is the low cost of hauling, its surface being less resistant to tractive effort than any we know. Dynamometer measurements show that the tractive force required to move a wheeled ton of weight on a level road are, for concrete, 32.5 pounds; for asphalt, 77.7 pounds; for brick, 51.8 pounds; and for earth, 134.7 pounds.

A taxi company so situated that it drove one set of cars almost entirely on dirt roads and another set almost entirely on concrete roads, reports that it costs 2.4 cents less per mile to operate the taxis on the cement road than on the dirt roads.

There are 12,000,000 automobiles in the country. If they average the low amount of 3000 miles each year the total miles driven is 36,000,000,000. At 2 cents a mile saving, the sum of $720,000,000 a year could go towards building hard surface roads, which income would build 24,000 miles of permanent highways every year!

'RICK' ACTION IS LOUDER THAN WORDS

Speaking of brakes!

And hills!

And narrow escapes!

Louis Reed, the brand new dealer of the Rickenback car was at the wheel, and a representative of the Glendale Daily Press was taking up the other half of the front seat.

From the "Rick" agency at 107 East Colorado the car stole smoothly along Colorado and down Adams street. Into the hills at the foot of Adams went the powerful "Rick." Up to the top of the hill the car pulled leaving a trail of dust. The road wound round and round, higher and higher, until a point was reached from which a wonderful view of the San Fernando valley is secured.

At the top Reed turned the bus around and pointed her nose down hill. Up to this point everything went well. There were no thrills to speak of.

But, good night! When the nose of the "Rick" was pointed to the regions below, right then and there something was on. The fireworks started to shoot in all directions and they kept right on shooting until the foot of the grade was reached.

Between corners Reed "gave 'er the gun," with the result that when the turns were reached the outfit was traveling like the wind. There was just time between turns for a fellow to think of the sins of the past. Just as the thinker got well under way another turn was rounded—and so on.

And those brakes! Time and time again said representative thought that everything was off, but the dependable four-wheel brakes of the Rick, brought the car almost to a stop with the ease and smoothness that was beyond description. There wasn't anything that looked like a skid, a clutching of the brakes or the like. The stop was made as smoothly as that of a motor boat. The demonstration was truly a revelation.

Then Reed piloted the car back to the "Rick" agency.

The press representative felt relieved when his foot was once more on American soil, but Reed said:

"It was absolutely nothing. With such brakes as those a car is as safe as a baby buggy. Some day I'll give you a real demonstration."

THE COST OF CARELESSNESS

Reports of automobile accidents in the United States to date indicate that deaths from such cause in 1923 will exceed 15,000—which averages a death every 50 minutes. And those injured in such accidents, it is estimated by insurance companies, will exceed 1,700,000.

While the number of automobiles in use has greatly increased, carnage wrought and injuries inflicted are not to be figured as necessarily subject to corresponding increase. The figures above cited are, in large part, to be listed as the toll that the nation pays to carelessness on the part of motorists and pedestrians. For most automobile accidents are avoidable. The great majority of them are attributable to speeding, to reckless driving, to joy riding, to intoxication at the steering wheel, to failure to exercise proper care as to safety appliances, to lack of care on the part of pedestrians and to other carelessness.

The above figures should drive home to all who use the highways the need for exercise of proper care.

With victims of accidents running above 15,000 annually and with the number of injured exceeding 1,700,000, the loss in man power that the nation thus sustains becomes staggering. And to this is to be added the direct loss suffered by the families of those killed and the pain and suffering and loss sustained by the injured.

And there is the loss in property that is to be rigured in. One killed in automobile accident every 50 minutes, five hurt every minute. That is the present rate. Let motorists and pedestrians think on these figures and realize the terrific cost of carelessness.

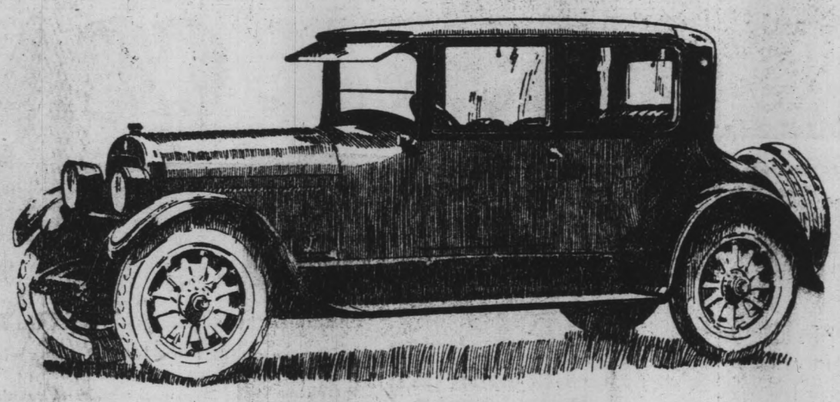
(Copyright, 1923, by The Ullman Feature Service)

DID YOU KNOW?

That because the braking area is doubled in the case of four-wheel brakes the prompt deceleration of a car when the brakes are applied discourages the natural tendency to lock the wheels? Even if the wheels are locked by accident under the newer arrangement for brakes there are four points of tire-road contact, and therefore just twice as much deceleration as when but two wheels are locked.

That in shifting gears one is likely to fail to completely mesh the gears? The car will seem to run well enough, but if two gears are only half meshed their teeth are unnecessarily strained. The "half mesh" is likely to occur in speeds where the gear shift lever is pushed forward, since the driver is not likely to push the lever ahead as strenuously as he will pull it back. When the gears are only half meshed push out the clutch for an instant and then push the shift lever all the way forward.

EXPECT GREAT THINGS



The New 5 Passenger Coupe

V-63

The distinguished appearance of this new Cadillac V-63 five-passenger Coupe indicates in itself that Cadillac has achieved even higher levels in fine car building.

It is insufficient to say that the luxurious comfort and the roominess that Cadillac has always provided have been delightfully increased.

These features have been supplemented by a fuller measure of driving safety—by a new and undreamed smoothness of performance.

Cadillac four-wheel brakes developed and perfected by Cadillac engineers after long, painstaking effort, contribute a certainty of control that makes the new V-63 Cadillac absolute master over every situation.

These sturdy brakes curb to implicit obedience the great power and speed of the new Cadillac V-63 engine—harmonized and balanced by entirely new principles of design to a degree of smoothness unapproached in automotive manufacture.

Eloquently does this Coupe's appearance invite you to expect great things. Equally impressively does the superb performance of the new V-63 Cadillac fulfill these great expectations.
